

Urban Renewal Project Hinges on Enforcement of Boro Codes

By STEVE CULLINANE

How soon Warren gets a new downtown parking lot and commercial building depends on how the new borough codes will be enforced.

Federal approval of the Liberty street urban renewal project appeared yesterday to hinge on the code-enforcement issue. Plue Wendelboe, executive director of the Warren County Redevelopment Authority, which is in charge of the project, outlined how the project now stands.

This is what remains to be done:

1. The federal government must give final approval to the preparations for the project that already have been made.
2. Money for the project must be obtained.
3. Land for the project must be acquired.
4. Residents of the project area must be relocated, and attempts made to relocate businesses.

5. The cleared land must be sold; one parcel must be used by its purchaser as the site for a commercial building facing Liberty street.

The final application for federal approval must have the okay of officials in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia before final approval is given in Washington. Wendelboe said Pittsburgh has approved the application and sent it on to Philadelphia, where it now awaits an okay. Philadelphia officials are satisfied with all but two parts of the application.

They want a resolution from the borough planning commission saying the commission supports the project. And they want an explanation of how Warren plans to enforce the codes recently enacted as prerequisites for the project. The resolution will be submitted this week, Wendelboe said. Borough manager Victor Miller is working on the code-enforcement explanation.

The enforcement issue is a ticklish one with borough council.

Federal officials have required not only the zoning, building, electrical, plumbing, housing and fire codes, but also a new employe to work full-time in enforcing them. The council would rather have the codes enforced by Miller and other officials now employed by the borough.

Wendelboe said Miller will try to convince the federal officials that this part-time code enforcement will be enough.

Miller was out of town yesterday and not available for comment. After the application is approved in Philadelphia, Wendelboe said, approval in Washington should not take long. The next step will be getting federal money for the project. Wendelboe said this will take a minimum of three months. The money could come in the form of a grant or in the form of federal backing of a bond issue, depending on interest rates at the time.

The federal contribution to the project is supposed to be $345,584. Of this, $285,000 has been set aside already, Wendelboe said he did not expect any problem in getting the remainder. The state and the borough have already pledged their contributions to the project.

When the money for the project has been obtained, the next step will be to negotiate purchase of the land and buildings in the project area. The redevelopment authority must try to agree on a fair price with property owners. But if this cannot be done, the authority can take the property by eminent domain. If this results in a court case, Wendelboe said, the project will not be delayed, since the authority can redevelop and sell the property while the court considers what price the ex-owner should ultimately get.

Another step that will be necessary is relocation of project area residents and businesses, Wendelboe said he had been

WARREN COUNTY

Approval by Philadelphia officials for Warren's new downtown parking lot and commercial building hinges on two issues. The officials have asked for a resolution of support from the borough planning commission and an explanation of how Warren plans to enforce the new borough codes.

Senator Richard C. Frame, at the monthly meeting of the Warren County Volunteer Fire Departments' Ambulance Service, last night, commended the ambulance services for providing the county with one of the finest emergency care programs in the Commonwealth.

THE NATION

After hours of spirited debate over a dizzy array of amendments, the House ordered President Johnson to reduce non-military spending by $5 billion to $7 billion this fiscal year and suggested ways to do it. The vote was 238 to 164, but congressional leaders said they were dubious that the Senate would support the House action.

The House Armed Service Subcommittee investigating the controversial M16 rifle said that the Army's handling of the rifle's ammunition problem "borders on criminal negligence." The subcommittee recommended a thorough review of the entire army system of development and production of new weapons.

The Republican heads of states refused to support any endorsement of President Johnson's policies in Vietnam. "Next year, the Presidential election year, will be the year of the great debate on the foreign policy of the United States," the Republicans declared in a joint statement.

THE WORLD

Initial findings from the first controlled penetration into the cloud-covered mysteries of Venus were announced by the Soviet Union, whose Venus 4 space station parachuted a capsule to Venus's surface after a journey of about 217.5-million miles.

SPORTS

The move of the Kansas City Athletics to Oakland, Calif., was approved by American League owners last night. New franchises were also planned for Kansas City and Seattle, Page 12.

Pennsylvania's Waynesburg College cut San Diego State's lead as the nation's number one small college football team to 20 points in this week's AP poll. The Yellow Jackets, who routed Frostburg, Md., 81-0 last Saturday, drew three first place votes to four for the Aztecs, Page 10.

Randy Whitney won the 400-meter hurdles yesterday to give the United States its fourth gold medal in the Pre-Olympic Games at Mexico City, but American hopes for another first took a nose-dive when Bill Toomey was forced out of the decathlon with a pulled hamstring, Page 11.

The Philadelphia 76ers opened defense of their National Basketball Association title last night by whipping the Los Angeles Lakers, 103-87. Billy Cunningham led the 76ers with 20 points, Page 12.

DISCUSS AMBULANCE SERVICES RESOLUTION

U.S. Plane Downs MIG; Hits Made Near Red China Border

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Air Force fighter-bomber shot down a MIG interceptor above Hanoi yesterday while other American warplanes pounded Hanoi and its outskirts and ranged close to Red China for a second straight day. U.S. Military headquarters said today. In South Vietnam, U.S. B-52 bombers and artillery rained explosives yesterday into suspected enemy positions in jungles northwest of Saigon after a day-long battle between American and Viet Cong infantrymen that took a heavy toll on both sides.

An Air Force F105 Thunder-
Truck Firms
Accept
Compromise

By BEN DE FOREST
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The nation's steel hauling truck firms accepted yesterday a compromise plan for ending the violent truckers strike, but the strike leader said he was against it and believed the drivers would turn it down.

"I've heard from quite a few of the states and the men aren't very happy about the proposal," said William Kusley, who organized the strike nine weeks ago. Kusley said he and other leaders would decide whether to vote on the compromise after getting official word of the action by the trucking companies.

The carriers, meeting simultaneously in Chicago and Pittsburgh, approved a modified plan drafted by a seven-state mediation panel recommending the drivers wait four hours at steel mills to be loaded before they start getting paid at least $10 an hour.

"My personal opinion is that the men are going to hold out for the two hours they have already approved," Kusley said.

The strikers voted last week to accept the panel's original recommendation of two hours, but the trucking firms rejected it. George Mandio, labor counsel for the 68-company National Steel Carriers Association, which met in Chicago, said the compromise should end the strike. "They have no legal rights to hold out now," he added.

But Kusley said, "This four-hour deal is on both ends — loading and unloading. That means if you carry a load a day you're putting in 40 hours a week free time. Do you know anybody who will put in a 40-hour week without getting a dime?"

chief pilot brought down the challenging MIG17 with 20mm cannon fire while his fellow pilots bombed a railroad bypass bridge only 19 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Simultaneously, Navy pilots from aircraft carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin returned to Hanoi to bomb the Lach Tray boat yard, 1.7 miles southwest of the center of the port city, and a huge army barracks compound three miles southeast of Hanoi's center.

Both targets were hit previously in raids earlier this month.

There was no word of any fresh contacts in the jungles 40 miles above Saigon where U.S. 1st Division infantrymen clashed with a main force Viet Cong regiment Tuesday. GIs said they were ambushed; the generals

All-White Jury Adjourns For Night in Rights Case

By BILL NEIKIRK
MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — An all-white federal court jury began deliberations yesterday on the fate of 18 men charged with conspiracy in what the government labeled "a calculated, cold-blooded plot" to murder three young civil rights workers in 1964.

After spending three hours and 35 minutes behind closed doors, not including an hour's break for dinner, the jurors were told by the judge to quit for the night.

The jury of seven women and five men, with testimony from 155 witnesses to consider, was asked by the Justice Department to convict all but one of the defendants. Deliberations began at 4:25 p.m. (CDT).

"What you 12 people do here today will be long remembered," said Asst. U. S. Atty. Gen. John Doar in final arguments. "If you find these men are not guilty, you will declare the law of Neshoba County to be the law of Mississippi."

Doar said, however, he thought the panel should acquit Travis M. Barnett, 39, a Meridian garage owner, because "I don't think the evidence warrants us asking you to return a guilty verdict against that individual."

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Harold Cox held in reserve a ruling on a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal on five other defendants.

Mike Watkins, one of 12 defense attorneys, countered called the battle a meeting engagement.

The Viet Cong's veteran 271st Regiment, hunted by troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division in Operation Shenandoah II since late September, turned on two American companies and a battalion command detail Tuesday in what the GIs called an ambush and the generals called a meeting engagement.

The Americans killed at least 103 of the Communists, but lost 58 dead and 61 wounded. This action, 40 miles northwest of the capital, swung back to an old Viet Cong stamping ground the locus of a war that had long centered on the demilitarized zone in the north.

Two widely known officers, Lt. Col. Terry Allen Jr., 38, and Maj. Don W. Hollender, 32, were among the American dead, cut down in succession in the battalion command.

Doar's claims, telling the jury that "the government's theory is that here in Mississippi the society is so closed and so filled with hate that we murder outsiders."

Attorneys for both sides stressed that the men were not on trial for murder, but on charges they conspired to violate the civil rights of two white men, Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 20, both of New York, and a Negro, James Chaney, 22, of Meridian.

Convicted for violating the Reconstruction era federal statute under which the men were tried could mean a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine. The state has never filed charges in the case.

Experiment With Electric Car

CINCINNATI — The General Electric Company, in disclosing details of its experimental electric car for the first time, said yesterday that it has a top speed of 55 miles an hour on level ground and a range of 100 to 120 miles at speeds of 30 to 35 miles an hour.

But Dr. Arthur M. Bueche, vice president of the G. E. research and development center at Schenectady, N.Y., noted that the car has "quite a long ways to go before it is ready for highway use."

He said it was "not as large as an American compact car,"

Ambulance Study is Explained

Warren County's volunteer ambulance services were commended last night for their efforts in providing the county with one of the finest emergency care programs in the Commonwealth.

The commendation made by State Senator Richard C. Frame came at the monthly meeting of the Warren County Volunteer Fire Department's Ambulance Service, held at Warren General Hospital.

Senator Frame was attending the meeting at the request of the county's volunteer ambulance drivers to discuss recent legislative action concerning a study of conditions and needs of ambulance services within the Commonwealth.

County volunteer ambulance drivers were concerned that the recent legislation might indicate a tightening of governmental standards concerning the qualifications of personnel allowed to operate an ambulance and the regulations regarding ambulance equipment. The concern was based on the fact that all of Warren County's ambulance services operate on a volunteer basis and that any tightening of regulation and personnel requirements by the government could conceivably jeopardize the ambulance services in the county.

In surveying the concern of the ambulance drivers Senator Frame noted that Pennsylvania communities can no longer consider the local ambulance service merely a means of transporting the sick and injured to our medical care centers. "This requires highly competent personnel," the Senator said, "and nowhere in Pennsylvania are the ambulance at-

House OK's $7 Billion Budget Cut

By MARJORIE HUNTER

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The House ordered President Johnson last night to reduce non-military spending by at least $5 billion to $7 billion this fiscal year and suggested ways to do it.

The vote was 238 to 164, a major victory for economy forces on both sides of the aisle.

Congressional leaders said last night they were dubious that the House action would be sustained by the Senate.

Democratic leaders tried desperately, during hours of spirited and sometimes ludicrous debate, to limit the budget reductions and to make Congress itself shoulder the job of pinpointing spending cuts.

Republicans, in turn, insisted that the President should have full responsibility for cutting spending by $5 billion.

In the end, by piling amendments and substitute plans on top of one another in dizzy array, the House produced a combination package requiring heavy slashes in domestic spending, cutting most government programs back to their last-year levels.

Voting for the spending limitation were 171 Republicans and 67 Democrats. Voting against were 155 Democrats and nine Republicans.

Seeking to head off the Republican proposal that would force the President alone to cut at least $5 billion in spending, economy-minded Southern Democrats proposed a plan of their own.

This would hold spending of government agencies for this fiscal year to the $125.6 billion spending level of last year.

Exempt would be such activities as Social Security, highway construction, old-age assistance, veterans pensions, postal and internal revenue operations, military salaries, war-related activities, Medicare and the debt limit payments.

Even with these exemptions, it was estimated that spending reductions would be about $7 billion, since most agencies would have to reduce their spending by about 3 per cent.

Republicans agreed to the plan, proposed by Jamie Whitten, D-Miss. But to nail in the assurance that spending be cut at least $5 billion, the Republicans attached their own proposal to the Whitten plan.

The Republican-Southern Democrat coalition drove through the spending limitation despite arguments by administration forces that such a severe budgetary cutback was impractical. With all the exemptions made for military spending and other programs that make up the major part of the budget, the argument was made that the cutbacks necessarily would have to be made in relatively few programs as agriculture and the war on poverty would have to bear the brunt of the economizing.

The spending impasse between the President and Congress was the key issue. But the vehicle for all the maneuvering was an otherwise routine proposal for financing government agencies whose regular appropriations bills have not cleared Congress.

Without congressional action to continue such temporary financing, many departments and agencies will become technically penniless after next Monday.

Economy forces also succeeded in imposing a limitations on temporary spending by the Office of Economic Opportunity. Anti-poverty spending would be limited for the time being to an annual rate of $1.2 billion, instead of the present $1.6 billion rate under which it is being funded until its regular money bill is approved.

Through nearly eight hours of debate, pro-administration Democratic forces found themselves repeatedly outmaneuvered and outnumbered.

Republicans, for the most part, sat back quietly and let the Democrats slug it out among themselves.

Scores Space Victory

By JOHN WEYLAND

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union achieved another historic space breakthrough yesterday by dropping on Venus instruments that radioed back the first information ever received from that planet's surface. The data indicated Venus' temperature was hot enough to melt metal.

U.S. space leaders, awaiting today's flyby of Venus by the American Mariner 5 spacecraft, called the Soviet landing of an instrument package on the cloud-shrouded planet "an accomplishment any nation can be proud of."

Official versions here of the flight gave no indication of what happened to Venus 4, the 2,438-pound vehicle that carried the instruments into Venus' atmosphere. Presumably it crashed into the surface.

The information relayed to earth showed Venus' atmosphere to be extremely hot — up to 536 degrees Fahrenheit — and made up almost entirely of carbon dioxide, which the earth's living creatures cannot breathe.

The feat with the unmanned Venus 4 spaceship was a big prestige boost for this country's space program, which had suffered a tragic setback April 24 when cosmonaut Vladimir M. Komarov was killed in the crash of Soyuz 1.

It was also a big leap forward for the Soviet Union in the space race with the United States.

Official announcements described the Venus 4 flight the way:

The spaceship, launched June 12, reached the atmosphere of the planet — 50 million miles away — at 12:34 a.m. EDT, yesterday and released its instruments in a separate package.

This braked itself, then put out a parachute. For the next 90 minutes it floated down the 15 miles toward Venus' surface sending back data through radio signals.

The temperature rose from 104 degrees Fahrenheit at the start of the descent to five times that at the end. Pressure rose to 15 times that on the earth,

Pours Coffee On Patrolman

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — A Jamestown youth accused of pouring a cup of coffee on a policeman forfeited bail totaling $50 when he failed to appear on two charges Tuesday in city court.

Jeffrey S. Brink, 19, forfeited $25 on a charge of disorderly conduct and $25 for resisting arrest.

Police report Patrolman Robert Rader was having a cup of coffee in Johnny's Lunch about 10:30 p.m. when the Brink youth, also having coffee, took his cup and poured the contents over the policeman.

The second charge was placed, officers said, when it was necessary to use force to take Brink into custody.

Cusimano Offers 6-Point Reapportionment Plan

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — A six point proposal was offered this week by former Jamestown supervisor Fred J. Cusimano who described the proposal as "the most equitable plan of reapportionment for Chautauque County."

Cusimano presented his proposal at a Democratic luncheon at the Terrace Inn where he called for the immediate adoption of a charter form of government.

"The county charter would reduce the county legislature," said the former supervisor, "which would represent broader regional areas and not individual units of the county." He cited several reasons why a county charter would provide the kind of leadership necessary to overcome city-county and town-city divisions. Another aspect of the proposal calls for the abolition of the present 37 part time members of the county board of supervisors, and the creation of the fulltime county legislature.

Mr. Cusimano told the assembled group of Democrats he favored division of the county into five districts whose population would be nearly as equal as possible. Under the proposal, each district would be composed of several townships with each district electing one supervisor. A sixth supervisor would be elected by all the voters of the county and the six would serve as the county executives. The final suggestion made by Cusimano was that the supervisors be elected to four year terms which he said would enable the county legislators ample time to devise and implement new programs.

At the conclusion of his speech the former Jamestown supervisor indicated his proposal was meant to be a model on how districting might be accomplished in Chautauque county and at the same time might maintain the geographical and political identity of each town and the cities of Jamestown and Dunkirk.

Jeffrey N. Nelson, chairman of the speakers bureau for the county Democratic committee had charge of the luncheon forum.

Protest Could Mean Delay

West of Warren rapid progress is the apparent keyword as the Route 6 Youngsville by-pass takes shape to provide that area with a highway crucially needed in this county.

Today at the County Highway Department at Starbrick, the proposed Route 6 Warren by-pass preliminary design is on display. It should not be necessary to remind citizens that the battle to get this limited access, four-lane divided highway on the drawing board has been a tough fight on many fronts.

Any additional delay brought about by public protest could have a devastating effect on the entire community. Highway engineers have carefully assessed the situation and arrived at a plan that will have a somewhat chaotic effect on a few areas in the path of the by-pass. Granted some residents will suffer; one recreation area will have to be relocated and some property condemned—but all fall only to correct a traffic situation that grows worse day after day, week after week and month after month. No more years must fly by before Warren gets its by-pass.

A public hearing is scheduled on the Warren by-pass at 10 a.m. next Tuesday. Let's hear strong support from the majority who want the community and county to forge ahead; to accommodate the many thousands who seek out our Kinzua Dam and Allegheny Reservoir and rich recreation facilities and from those residing here who believe in growth and progress.

Possible dissenters should avail themselves today with the chance to view the plans and discuss them with the state highway engineer.

If we play our cards right, with no dealing from the bottom of the deck, the first section of the long-sought Route 6 Warren by-pass could conceivably get underway in 1963. And this is not any too soon.

SYLVIA PORTER

Off Season Vacation Savings

If you are planning a vacation trip to Bermuda, you'll save significant amounts by scheduling your trip during the "low season" which runs from Nov. 1 to March 1. The savings apply not only to air and boat fares, but also to hotel room rates, meals, a rented car, and this is so even though the average November temperature in Bermuda is 73.5 degrees.

If you take one of American Express's 15-day tours of seven European countries in June, the package costs you $558—but if you go this month, the cost is only $398. For a typical nine-country, 32-day tour of Europe, the cost is $647 now, in the thrust season, vs. $1,114 in the peak season beginning in May. This is a difference of $54 for a couple traveling together.

If Alaska is your vacation destination you'll make significant savings simply by scheduling your trip in May rather than in June and in September rather than August. Here, the cost difference for one 10-day tour by air and sea from Seattle for one person is $534 vs. $608.

Or if it's the Caribbean you want, go in the low season before mid-December. By scheduling your Caribbean vacation before peak rates go into effect between Dec. 15 and April 14—and before the tourists crowd in—you'll save an estimated 30 per cent in the total cost of your vacation.

"Timing," in short, is a major weapon against rising vacation costs, just as it is a significant weapon against zooming costs in the areas of food and clothing. What's more, this is a weapon you can use at your own discretion.

For today the trend is overwhelmingly for U. S. employers to allow employees to take their vacations whenever they want. Only one in four U. S. manufacturing companies recently surveyed by the National Industrial Conference Board restricts time during which employees may take vacations and even many of the minority which do restrict vacation periods extend the periods for as long as 10 or 11 months of the year.

Today also, more than eight out of 10 U. S. employers permit split vacations, and for white collar employees, the proportion is nine out of 10.

Most of you, therefore, can plan your family vacation whenever you want during the year. You can split your vacation into two holidays if you wish and take advantage of bargain off-season rates.

The savings run across the board. For instance, one car rental agency in Ireland charges $42.65 a week plus 5 cents a mile during the peak summer season, but only $44.80 a week, with unlimited mileage for the same car during March or October. Thus, total savings for a 2,000-mile, four-week trip would amount to $91.40—and there are additional similar savings on plane or boat fares, hotel rooms, meals, local transportation and entertainment.

The savings also are on top of others you might achieve by getting on charter flights, traveling on family air fares, and deducting part of the cost of combination business-pleasure trips from your Federal income tax. And none of this even refers to the advantages of avoiding huge crowds, sloppy service and long waiting lines.

The off-season holiday will become more and more the "in" thing to do—with the obvious pluses not only to you, the vacationer, but also to all vacation industries which can then serve us the year round and smooth out their expensive seasonal ups and downs.

RUSSELL BAKER

Autumnal Foliage Blues

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass. — We went to look at the leaves. It is what Americans do at this time of year. There were leaves everywhere. They were beautiful.

Baker

M a ryland was full of leaves, and so was Pennsylvania. "The leaves are magnificent," said the lady on the front seat as we witnessed the leaves of Hag-erstown, Md., Mercersburg, Pa., and Plainfield, N.J.

She had exhausted "aren't the leaves lovely?" and "the leaves are spectacular" between Rockville and Frederick, Md. That was billions of leaves back down the road. Still to come were the leaves of New York, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine.

Thinking about all those leaves lying ahead took some of the edge from the trip. You could sense that something important was oozing out of the expedition, the way you can sense that a long involved joke is not going to get a laugh.

It was important to say something that would restore the vitality of the situation, and as the car negotiated Hillsdale, N. J., there seemed nothing more fitting to say than "the leaves are really lovely, aren't they?"

"You've said that 20 times since we left Pennsylvania. I've been counting, and on 20 separate occasions you already said 'the leaves are really lovely, aren't they?'"

"I'm sorry. We'll be in New York soon. They say the leaves up there are really a knockout. They'll probably inspire one of us to a truly moving statement."

For reply she fell asleep. New York arrived. There were glorious leaves and creeping dyspepsia. The leaves were beautiful, but pettingfogging doubt cast a pall over the windshield. Were these leaves, in the final analysis, any more beautiful than the leaves in front of the house in Washington?

From the adjacent seat came the regular breathing of a person asleep. "Were not such people to be envied on a leaf tour? Ugly, unworthy emotions about leaves began to assert themselves, but surely there was no justification for hating the leaves. It was not the leaves' idea to have people drive hundreds of miles to stare at them in their scarlet and gold death throes.

The brain was becoming glazed when the highway suddenly shouted at it, "Keep awake!" commanded the highway.

Obediently, the mind snapped to attention. The highway had a nasher temper than a Warner Brothers Nazi. It was constantly issuing orders. "Check gas gauge!" it thundered. "Keep right!" "No turns!"

It was important to disturb the sleeper. "I know," she said, "the leaves are really beautiful."

"Now listen carefully. We are on the meanest highway I've ever met in my life. It keeps issuing nasty orders without so much as a please or a by your leave."

Just at that moment the highway roared "fasten seat belts!" and followed this with a menacing "do not enter!"

"You're leaf-happy!" said the lady. "All highways talk like that."

"Watch for slow-moving vehicles!" interrupted the highway. "You're just grasping for excuses to get your mind off the beauty of the leaves," she continued.

"Do not cross solid lines!" screamed the evil-tempered highway. "It was intolerable, and we took a timid little road into Catskill, N.Y. The leaves pressed on us. They were very beautiful and exceedingly dull. A canny old Republican was baring a pile of them beside the road. He thought it uproarious that anyone would come all the way from Washington to look at his maple tree and said you would never catch him going to Washington to look at anybody else's leaves."

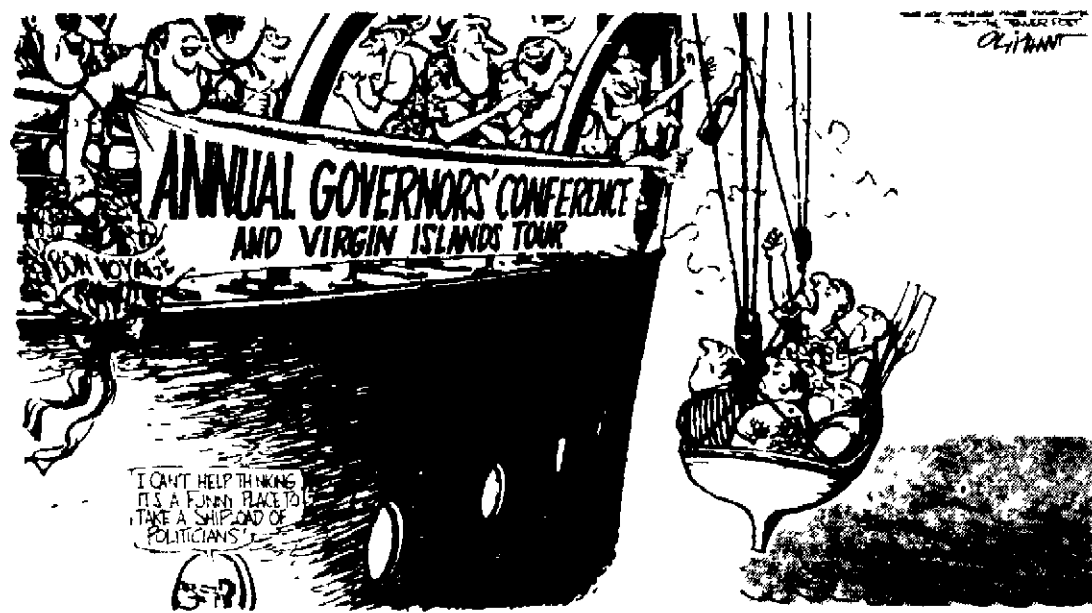

All the way to the Massachusetts border there was silence in the car because nobody had the courage to ask aloud, "what are we doing here?"

The philosophical approach seemed indicated. "You know, you can't say this trip has been a complete waste of time. It has helped us discover a truth. Namely, that there are some people who get something from leaves and others who can take leaves or leave leaves alone."

"We still have the leaves of Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine ahead of us," said the lady. "Ponder that and give me some philosophy that cuts to the bone."

The correct formulation took some time, but it can now be stated: If you've seen one billion leaves, you've seen them all.

'YOU CAN'T DO THIS TO US JUST BECAUSE WE WANT TO DISCUSS VIETNAM!'

Shirley Has a Shaky Platform

LOS ANGELES—The big question in California is whether it will continue the current trend of putting actors in charge of government.

The question will be decided next month when Northern Californians vote on whether to send Shirley Temple, now Mrs. Charles A. Black, to Congress.

The little girl movie star who entranced so many children 30 years ago is now running on the Republican ticket on a morality platform.

Ironically, the public has forgotten that Shirley isn't particularly well qualified to talk about morality. When she sued her first husband, John Agar, the packing house heir, for divorce, he replied with a blistering cross-complaint accusing her of similar misconduct.

The world was shocked. Public reaction was so bad that Shirley's box office days ended. Movie-goers who had seen Shirley for years as the demure little girl, now learned that she was embroiled in a nasty divorce suit.

Hedda Hopper, the Hollywood columnist, reported that Shirley's divorce was "on most people's minds. They are taking it harder than Ingrid Bergman's. To say that she has disappointed millions is putting it mildly." Shirley had starred in the summer of 1949 in a new picture, "A Kiss for Corliss," sharing billing with David Niven. The picture got A-1 advance reviews and was considered such a sure hit that it was booked on the entire Loew Circuit, including the Capitol Theatre in New York.

The cross-fire of accusations in the divorce suit, however, ended that. There were immediate cancellations. Shirley's name was hissed by some audiences, loans to finance the film were jeopardized, and the producers never did recover all of their money.

That was the last picture Shirley Temple ever made.

Shirley Temple's affairs were her business up until the time she started running for Congress on a morality program. At that time they became the public's business.

Note—Shirley is running in a field of candidates so numerous you can hardly count them, which should help her because hers is the name everyone knows.

Of California's other two actors now gone government, Sen. George Murphy, the ex-shoe dancer, is enjoying relative obscurity in the Senate, while Gov. Ron Reagan is enjoying great popularity outside California, less in California.

Reagan, who never played a lead role in a "B" picture, is now playing the lead role in making California a "B" state.

When you apply for industrial accident insurance in California after you suffer injury on the job, you find that it takes months and months to receive compensation. Reagan has dropped so many state employees from the compensation staff that it's physically impossible to get your claim processed.

Or when you appeal to have your automobile license restored without going through the normal 60-day period, the clerk will tell you candidly that you'll save time by waiting 60 days; it would take 90 days to appeal—all because so many state employees have been dropped from the licensing staff.

Or if a member of your family has been suffering from mental illness, you find that the very efficient system of mental clinics established by Gov. Pat Brown has been drastically curtailed, with the result that your relative has to go to a mental hospital instead. This means that in the long run the state of California will pay more, since upkeep in hospitals is far more expensive than occasional visits to state-run clinics.

But Gov. Reagan, California's No. 1 actor, is still missing no cues. His lines are good, his speeches well rehearsed. He watches his exits and his entrances, never misses a chance to appear before the footlights via television. For instance, the new governor spends two days out of a busy month sitting with the Board of Regents. This is unheard of on the part of any previous California governor. The Board of Regents includes some of the leading citizens of the state, ranging from Mrs. Norman Chandler, wife of the publisher of the Los Angeles Times, to Simon Norton, biggest businessman on the West Coast. Ed Pauley, oilman confidant of Harry S. Truman, and Fred Dutton, former Assistant Secretary of State.

Both the press and the TV cameras are admitted to Boards of Regents meetings, and Reagan sits there for two full days. He purses his lips, scowls, radiates the proper facial expressions when certain things are said or done. Immediately after each session, he gives a press interview before the TV cameras in which he may express a view completely different from that which he has given before the board.

Inside the board, Reagan gets plenty of support from the old Truman Democrat, Ed Pauley. Pauley was appointed by Brown but has heavy oil investments in the state, has now switched to Reagan.

Reagan's chief opposition strangely comes from Mrs. Chandler, even though the L.A. Times once endorsed him; also from Norton and Dutton. They argue that California's great industrial complex will suffer if it loses its present high output of scientists and engineers. Though California ranks among the top industrial states in the nation, they point out it is only eighth in per capita support of higher education.

California must attract skilled brains and skilled labor in order to keep on top as one of the leaders in aviation and space. Gov. Reagan, however, believes otherwise.

Smoking Nightmare Seen

HARRISBURG — The conviction is growing on Capitol Hill that Governor Shafer's signature on Pennsylvania's cigarette tax increase bill earlier this week may very well turn into a smoking nightmare for Keystone State Republicans next year.

The issue is not on the five-cent-a-pack uppage in the levy itself which generally is discounted as inconsequential and at worst merely irritating to tag addicts, but rather in the manner in which administration Republicans by a "vote of convenience" whipped through the cigarette increase last week in the Senate — one vote shy of the nominal, normal and accepted 26 votes heretofore required to clear tax bills and similar legislation in the upper house.

The image now beginning to emerge from the action of Senate Republicans in last week's slight-of-hand maneuver decreasing only 25 votes are needed to pass legislation in that chamber (which was all they could muster on their own of the 26 heretofore required) is not a pleasant image — an image carried over (perhaps unfortunately) to the Shafer Administration which spawned the base for the strategy in the first place.

Democratic lawmakers, now that the dust of last week's fracas has begun to lift, are beginning to pick up the chant (almost a natural one now) of referring to the Republican Shafer Administration as the "administration of convenience" — the "convenience" of course referring to the interpretation placed on that section of the State Constitution by the (administration-appointed) Attorney General who opined that "a majority of members elected" means just those in office at the time. (One of the seats currently is vacant due to a still unsettled ballot tiff in York County.)

The question of whether the Attorney General was right or wrong is destined to go to the State Supreme Court for final decision and should the court rule (as many here feel it will) that the State's ranking appointive legal officer was wrong in his interpretation, the nightmare prospect of the moment for Republicans unquestionably would be compounded.

Next year is a legislative election year in which all 203 members of the House of Representatives and half the 50-member Senate will be elected. Anti-administration Democrats as matters stand at present are within only a few hairs of controlling both House and Senate. In the Senate Republicans have only the 26 seats required for controlling that chamber (depending on how you interpret the constitution, of course) while in the House they have only one seat to spare above the 102 required in that chamber.

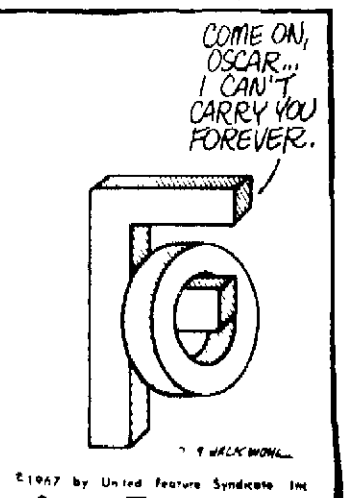

With an issue such as they now have been literally handed (the "administration of convenience") plus the tax increase issues they have fought belligerently and with gusto throughout the 1967 session, they generally are regarded as grabbing an excellent chance of stalling the reins from incumbent legislative Republicans in the legislative run-offs next year.

Interestingly, a number of Republican lawmakers privately concede the point — with many a rank and file GOPster urged to his gills over the administration's move of the past week which in the end gained only a paltry $55 million (estimated return on the cigarette tax increase for the balance of the fiscal year) in relation to the overall near $300 million in new taxes needed by the administration!

The point is, the administration's Attorney General may or may not have been right in his interpretation but the "convenience" of producing the interpretation to the administration's benefit at a time when it found itself blocked raises the question of the ends justifying the means. The issue never had a chance for full, open legislative exploration.

This is why the French profess not to understand the American objective in the war—a puzzlement widely shared in Europe. And it is why the Johnson administration's new emphasis on the threat of a monolithic Asian Communism, while it does admit an American national interest in the war, makes no significant difference in the French attitude. For as it is seen here, the war is drawing Chinese power into Southeast Asia rather than keeping it out.

Teaching China a Lesson

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dean Rusk announced last week at his press conference that the real reason we are fighting in Vietnam is to contain Red China.

This came as good news to the Vietnamese people, many of whom are still not too sure what the war is all about.

Two Vietnamese peasants were huddled in a foxhole during a bombing raid.

"Say," said one of them to the other, "Did you hear the good news? This war has nothing to do with us. It's really between China and the United States."

"No kidding," the other peasant said, hugging the earth as a bomb exploded. "Where did you hear that?"

"On the radio. You see, the reason why the United States is fighting in Vietnam is to contain China's expansionist ambitions. This is America's way of telling China to keep her hands off Southeast Asia."

Another bomb exploded. "I wish there was another way of doing it," the peasant said.

"That's the trouble with you, Dao. You never can see the big picture. If the United States doesn't show that it's willing to honor its commitments in Vietnam, then every country in Southeast Asia will fall."

A bomb hit a hut about 100 feet from the foxhole.

"I guess I'm just selfish at heart," Dao said. "I really can't get too excited about what is happening in the rest of Southeast Asia at the moment."

"Dao, I'm surprised at you. There are 1 billion Chinese people and they are committed to taking over 1 billion free people, and if it weren't for the United States bombing us, they would do it tomorrow."

Several fields caught on fire. "Ok, I grant you that the Free World has a great stake in Vietnam. But even so I don't enjoy being bombed."

"Nobody likes being bombed. But once you understand the reasons behind it, then it all makes sense."

"If this is really a contest between the United States and China, why don't the Americans bomb China? Why don't the Americans bomb China instead of us?"

"Because that would get China into the war, and the United States doesn't want China in the war, stupid."

"Don't call me stupid. I don't see why we should be bombed just because the United States doesn't want to bomb China."

"Good grief, Dao, do you want to remain a peasant all your life? Secretary Rusk has spelled it out as clearly as possible. He's even willing to stop the bombing if Hanoi will go to the conference table."

"Why won't Hanoi go to the conference table?"

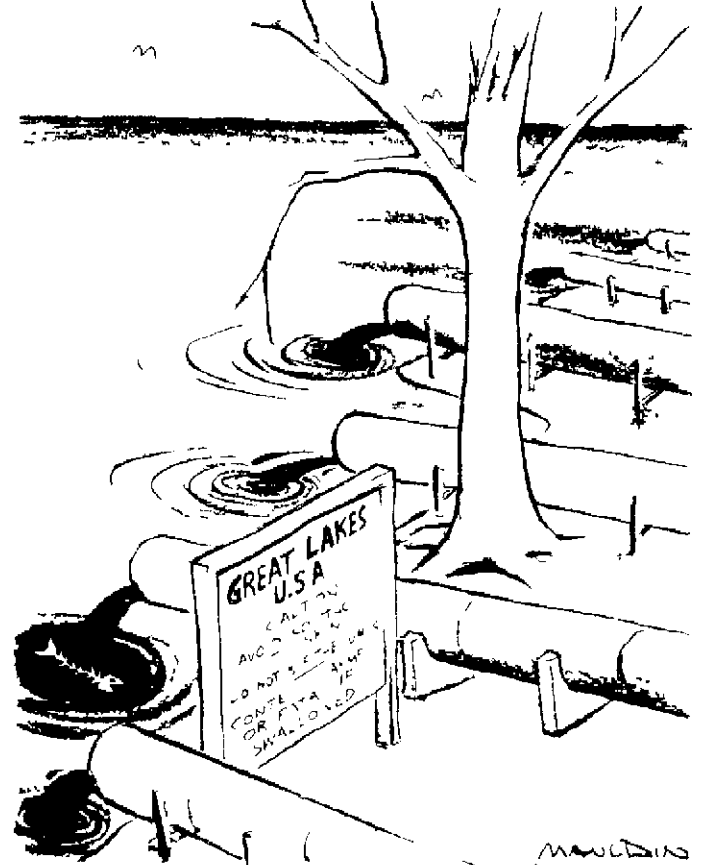

"Because if it does the Chinese will lose face."

"I was afraid of that."

Another bomb exploded a few feet from the foxhole and dirt fell on both men.

Dao said, "When did Rusk say the Chinese would see reason so he wouldn't have to bomb us any more?"

"He said he wasn't sure, but possibly in the next generation."

Urges Pope to Change Rules on Contraception

By DENNIS F. REDMONT
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — The first Roman Catholic World Lay Congress in 10 years ended last night with a blunt and dramatic appeal to Pope Paul VI to let couples decide about birth control for themselves.

The appeal introduced a powerful new element in the Church's birth control picture. The forceful message was the first from lay leaders of the half-billion-member Church to the pontiff to change the Church's rules on contraception.

A resolution containing the stand on birth control was formally approved at the plenary session of the congress.

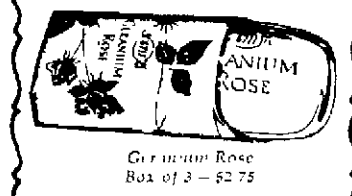

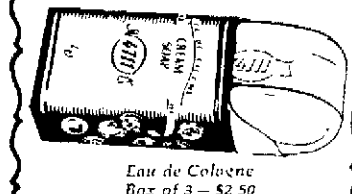

The meeting climaxed a hectic week in which the 2,500 delegates debated some of the most pressing problems in the present day Church.

A wide range of other resolutions were also approved, including one condemning racism and another calling on the Church to give greater rights to women.

None of the resolutions required a vote of the full congress. They had been approved by the congress's executive body of delegation heads and no delegate rose to question them when the president for yesterday, Jay Alvarez - Icaza of Mexico, banged his gavel and proclaimed them the official position of the assembly.

The statement on women's rights included an appeal that women be included on all pontifical commissions. This caused a considerable buzz among the 100 bishops and cardinals, many front rows of the congress hall as observers.

Shooting War in Vietnam Could Cause LBJ's Defeat

By Hugh Fleming
TMO Wash. Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Pennsylvania's Senator Joseph S. Clark said yesterday that if the shooting war in Vietnam is not stopped, President Johnson could be defeated next year and take a pack of Democrats down with him.

"The best tactic this country has today," said Clark, "is to follow the path to a negotiated settlement in Vietnam by halting the bombing in the North and discontinuing offensive ground action in the South."

The Vietnam war is at a "stalemate," Clark said. It can only be broken by definite American action to transfer the fighting to the conference table. "I don't think a military victory is feasible, a settlement in Vietnam must be won by political and diplomatic means. The calculated risk of halting the bombing is one we can afford. I don't think it would cost more American casualties. It would decrease American casualties."

Clark said he fears increased and prolonged bombing might draw the Russian air force or the Chinese into the war.

The "extremely dangerous" recent bombing of Haiphong harbor, Clark stated "is in violation of policy statements." The senator said that his mail is about five to one in support of

Dig New Hampshire

If somebody doesn't do something about it soon, New Hampshire is going to yield us, in return for all the effort of the politicians, nothing but inconclusiveness, in which case the politicians might just as well have spared themselves the trouble. At the moment, New Hampshire is expected to yield the answers to two questions, 1) How well does George Romney do outside Michigan; or, put in another way, Can George Romney do outside New Hampshire? And 2) Can Richard Nixon still win elections? If only New Hampshire would confine itself to attempting to settle these two points, she will have performed a fine civic duty.

Buckley

Unfortunately, the backers of other candidates do not wish to wait until a later primary in order to test out their powers. Thus backers of Governor Nelson Rockefeller have announced that they mean to organize a write-in campaign for him, and backers of Governor Ronald Reagan have done the same thing. Both Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Reagan have duly expostulated with their supporters—who waved back smilingly, and go right on organizing their campaigns, insisting that they are furthering the work of the democratic process, that if the people want somebody to be President, the people have the right to draft him.

That of course greatly complicates the picture. But hark, it gets even more complicated. Suppose that in a contest between Romney and Nixon there was a Reagan write-in. Cui bono? Romney, of course: since Reagan would divide the conservative vote. Suppose that in a contest between Romney and Nixon there was a Rockefeller write-in. Cui bono? Romney, of course: since Rockefeller would divide the liberal vote.

Now brace yourself, because this gets complicated. Assuming that Rockefeller wanted Romney to win, and that of course is the general assumption since Rockefeller has been backing Romney since last fall, then you would expect that Rockefeller would be delighted at any step taken to divide the conservative vote. So delighted that he might just send in an anonymous contribution to the Reagan Write-In Committee and maybe a few skilled advisers. And, of course, Nixon backers would counter by contributing money and skills to the Rockefeller write-in.

But what if Rockefeller at this point concedes privately what an increasing number of Republicans (e.g. Lindsay) are beginning to concede publicly, namely that Romney isn't going to make it. Or, if you prefer a positive formulation, that Rockefeller would be the better candidate. Then doesn't it follow that Rockefeller would want once and for all to dispose of Romney in New Hampshire, and that the best way to accomplish that is to urge unity among conservative Republicans?

If in New Hampshire Nixon defeats Romney, then Rockefeller can proceed modestly to succumb to a Draft Rockefeller movement, and attempt a battle against Nixon in Wisconsin, Nebraska, and Oregon. Moreover, if Reagan is effectively kept out of New Hampshire, and has yet to test his power, he would test it most likely in Wisconsin or in Nebraska; and it is clearly to the benefit of Rockefeller at that point to have arrived at a situation in which all the liberals are united behind himself, Romney having been lost in the snows of New Hampshire, whereas the Republican conservatives are still divided between Nixon and Reagan.

In which case—if you can bear it—Rockefeller all of a sudden has a stake in keeping Reagan out of New Hampshire, and in Nixon's victory in New Hampshire. Reagan's difficulties are both less and more subtle. Anything short of a full effort in New Hampshire followed by a victory over Nixon is likely to hurt his prestige. But such a full effort might just not be enough to surpass Nixon, if Nixon turns out to be hot; and then where would Reagan be?

And on the other hand, if Reagan's supporters cause just enough of a drain to hurt Nixon but help Romney or Rockefeller more, the hostility to Reagan from within the conservative and middle ranks of the GOP will be high, and he might suffer at the brokering phase of the Convention. These are men who are all set to go for Reagan provided Nixon, to the extent such things ever happen in politics, is beaten fair and square. So that it would appear, and this of course is what makes politics so interesting, that Rockefeller and Reagan ought to be desiring the identical thing in New Hampshire: a victory for Nixon.

THE ARMY OF TOMORROW

Military Harnesses Science to Tactics

By HANSON W. BALDWIN
N. Y. Times Military Editor
(c) N. Y. Times News Service
FORT ORD, Calif. — The army of tomorrow will reconnoiter the battlefield with silent aircraft, fix targets with laser rangefinders and suppress enemy resistance with tremendous bursts of fire from automatic weapons.

The experimentation Command of the U. S. Army's Combat Development Command, with headquarters at Fort Ord and teletyped computer-controlled ranges at the Hunter Liggett military reservation nearby, has harnessed science to tactics to help the army determine the shape of future war.

The experimentation command, headed by Maj. Gen. George L. Mabry Jr., a medal of honor winner, is now conducting a study of the infantry rifle unit in the 1970-75 period, mounted and dismounted combat operations with tanks and infantry, indirect fire operations with mortars and artillery, including target acquisition and hit probabilities, and aerial surveillance systems. The studies are conducted with live fire and specially tailored army units on elaborately monitored ranges, with scientific support by a group from Litton Industries.

Results help to guide the Combat Development Command and the Army staff in developing weapons, tactics and organization of the future.

The infantry rifle unit tests — a study of the basic building block of the future army, the most important tests now in progress — will be completed before the end of 1968. Tentative conclusions indicate that the rifle unit of tomorrow might variously be called fire team or squad and that its size will probably be from five to seven men — about half the size of today's squad.

The automatic weapons of the 1970-75 period — rapid fire grenade launchers, rifles that fire flechettes or small dart-like projectiles and new types of small arms — will give a few men almost as much firepower as a platoon of today. Tomorrow's basic building block, the fire team or squad, must therefore be much smaller than today's, and the ratio of leaders to men must be higher in the vastly increased firepower is to be properly controlled.

Rifles firing the flechettes will spew out numerous small high-velocity darts effective up to about 350 meters (382 yards) a single cartridge. The rifleman, therefore, achieves a kind of long-range shotgun effect with a greater probability of a hit. Grenade launchers may be carried on the same rifle or in a contraption that will hurl grenades as fast as a man can turn a handcrank.

The study of silent planes to replace noisy helicopters for surveillance behind the enemy lines or over the battlefield includes tests of a new Lockheed QT-2, a tiny glider-like one-man aircraft, which slightly resembles a baby version of the famous U-2 spy plane.

It has a wooden bladed propeller and flies so quietly it is difficult to hear. Modified versions of the Grumman OV-1 army observation plane are also under test.

The laser rangefinder, utilizing an intense beam of light, promises greater accuracy for the forward field artillery observer in his estimates of ranges to enemy targets. The Experimentation Command here is trying to determine what field errors are made in providing artillery support and how they can be reduced.

The Veterans Administration estimates more than half a million veterans who have served since January 31, 1955, will receive educational training during the next year.

A study of hit probabilities is inherent in the command's work. Data from Vietnam is inadequate but one rough figure used by the Pentagon is that it has required about 25,000 rounds of small arms fire in Vietnam to inflict one enemy casualty. Greater accuracy, or more volume of what is called suppression fire to make the enemy take cover may be the future answer. In either case, experts here believe that the ratio of supply to combat troops will have to increase in the future in order to keep the fighting soldier supplied with the vast quantity of ammunition he will expend.

The Hunter Liggett reservation, where the Experimentation Command does its work, is part of what is known as the Fort Ord complex centered on or near the Monterey peninsula. The complex also includes the presidio of Monterey and Camp Roberts — a total of almost 250,000 acres.

Fort Ord, a U. S. Army training center for infantry, is commanded by Maj. Gen. T. A. Kenan. It has provided since Jan. 1, 1966, basic and advanced infantry training and combat support training for about 180,000 men.

More than 10,000 men, including 5,471 recruits undergoing eight weeks basic combat training drawn chiefly from the Los Angeles area, are in training here today.

In The Hobo Woods

CUCHI, South Vietnam—Every so often—if you go out and have a look, at any rate—you see something that puts startlingly solid flesh on a seemingly abstract idea. Take Gen. William C. Westmoreland's oft-repeated statement that he needed the whole first year of the war to "build an adequate base" for future operations.

To understand what he was really talking about, you could hardly do better than to go to the Pineapple Plantation and the Hobo Woods, as I have just done. These have been places of ill omen for a quarter-century and more; but they are rapidly ceasing to be because of that painstakingly constructed "base" of Westmoreland's.

The Pineapple Plantation is a vast swamp, once drained by a French company for the purpose indicated by its name. In the French war, the Viet Minh destroyed the drainage system, bringing the swamp back. Then they riddled the low ridges heaped up for pineapple culture with thousands of strongly built bunkers. Thus the swamp became a perfect permanent refuge for a battalion and an easy staging area for a full regiment.

As such, the Pineapple Plantation was one of the more troublesome Viet Cong bases on the Saigon perimeter. The most troublesome of all, however, was the huge stretch of rubber and scrub jungle called the Hobo Woods. Here there were two, three and even four-level tunnel complexes, more than one of them quite large enough to hold an entire enemy battalion without crowding. Here there were hospitals, printing presses, small-arms repair plants—all underground, of course.

Knowing both places by evil reputation, one wanted to see them firsthand, and this was now possible. The Pineapple Plantation was not especially spectacular. A substantial force had been needed to run out the locally resident Viet Cong battalion; but they were gone now, and there was nothing left but a patrol base of our 7th Infantry Regiment, whose men spend day after day finding and blowing up enemy bunkers. The point the place made was negative.

The Hobo Woods were something else again, however. My host, Gen. F. K. Meares, had had to use the best part of his crack 25th Infantry Division "just to get into the damned place." He still has one artillery and three infantry battalions at work there, and "they'll need another month to cut themselves out."

One saw what he meant as soon as the helicopter put down at the day's work-site of the 4th Battalion, 23rd Mechanized Infantry Regiment. The young battalion commander, Lt. Col. Thomas Ware, pointed to the work in progress and remarked with a wry grin, "Our new job is cutting trees." "Cutting trees" hardly conveys the extraordinary character of the operation in gress. A dozen bulldozers with Rome ploughs attached were tearing into the jungle, echelon formation. Now a dozer would back off to split the trunk of a jungle giant with spike at its plough's forward end. Now another dozer would buck and heave so among resistant forest growth that expected the huge machine overturn. But always the jungle came down, in long windrows that covered the ground with thick, ruinous tangle.

The whole of the Hobo Woods—all 3,000 acres—is to be leveled in this manner. The job takes 50 days to finish. Then, the engineers may not have more time to pump the tunnels full of water, which is really the only way to destroy them for good. (No one has figured out the Viet Cong engineering methods, which normally keep these complexes in this extremely wet country. But once waterlogged, they are filled, at any rate.)

In the tunnels, meanwhile, huge caches of Viet Cong supplies and weapons have been ready to be picked up, and more tunnels and more caches are found almost every day. From the tunnels, too, enemy soldiers constantly pop up, sometimes fire a couple of rounds at the jungle cleaners—for this is not a danger-free job—or sometimes surrender. The help of the Viet Cong medical service in this province came that way, a day or so ago.

On the flight from Saigon to Cuchi, moreover, one saw quite literally scores of other Rome ploughed jungle patches that have served the Viet Cong as lesser areas for many years on end. Methodically, one by one, at these places that formed the main network of Viet Cong control in this part of Vietnam are being rendered untenable by the dozer operators with their nightly sharpened giant plough shares.

It is not the sort of thing that could even be thought about until Gen. Westmoreland's "base" had finally been completed. But now it is not just being thought about, it is actually being done. And it is getting results, too, in the form of gradually receding Viet Cong control of provinces once held in an iron grip.

Lynda Bird's Future Wedding Creates Fashion Guessing Game

By ENID NEMY

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — The fashion guessing game, apparently a favored White House amusement, is once again at a peak. This time, it is occasioned by the forthcoming marriage of Lynda Bird Johnson to Capt. Charles S. Robb of the Marine Corps.

The President's elder daughter, who has revealed some intimate details of her romance and engagement in an article in McCall's magazine to be released next week, is reluctant to discuss less personal subjects. The designer of the bridal gown for the Dec. 9 ceremony, and the trousseau plans, are shrouded in secrecy.

A White House announcement Monday confirmed that Miss Johnson had selected chintilly flatware by Gorham for her silver pattern ($41.50 for a four-piece table setting of knife, fork, teaspoon and salad fork). The Louis XV design was originally introduced by Gorham in 1895 and, according to a company spokesman, "is ornate but restrained and has been the most popular pattern we've had in the last 30 years."

The announcement added that Miss Johnson had chosen the tuxedo pattern by Lenox for her china and the President's house pattern by the Morgantown Glassware Guild of West Virginia for her crystal.

The tuxedo pattern, an all white service with a narrow gold rim, is $37.95 for a five-piece place setting of dinner, salad, bread and butter plates and cup and saucer.

The President's house, an unadorned crystal originally selected by Mrs. John F. Kennedy and still used in the White House, is $1.60 a glass.

There was, however, no information on any part of the wardrobe planned for the wedding.

"Lynda wants, as every bride does, her dress to be a surprise to the groom," said Mrs. Martha Ross, a White House press spokeswoman.

However, there is reason to believe that some serious approaches have been made regarding her wedding dress. One of the companies said to be in the forefront of the bridal sweepstakes is the House of Bianchi in Boston. The family-operated concern, founded in 1949, is the closest approach to a custom wholesale house. Bridal gowns sell for $175 to $800 (average price is $325) in stores across the country.

Phyllis Bianchi (Mrs. Bernard Lange), president, head designer and daughter of the founder, refused any comment when told of the report. But other sources insisted that the Boston concern had been at least asked to submit sketches for consideration.

Miss Bianchi, whose spring and summer collection is now being shown in New York, currently favors high stovepipe necklines, an easy line with a suggestion of fit under the bust and fabrics like silk and wool that have some body. She prefers ivory to white and often designs a dress and coat costume to wear during the ceremony. The coat, which is fashioned to look like part of the dress, can then be removed for the reception.

Miss Johnson, a slim (size 8 or 10), tall (5 feet 9 inches) brunette partial to somewhat more make-up and hair than are currently fashionable, is no stranger to the manufacturing edifices that line Seventh Avenue.

She is as fond of clothes as most 23-year-olds and more able to indulge herself than most. A recent shopping expedition during which she spent $4,000 for 25 fall and winter outfits was not unusual, according to manufacturers.

The dress to be worn by Mrs. Johnson at her daughter's wedding is also the subject of speculation. Two of her favored designers — Adele Simpson and George Stavropoulos — said they had not as yet been approached, and Mollie Parnis, a third, said "I can't discuss whether I've been approached."

Agree on Nonprofit Broadcasting

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate-House conference committee agreed Tuesday on a bill to create a nonprofit corporation to support the development and distribution of noncommercial radio and television programs.

The compromise version of measures previously passed by the Senate and the House now goes back to each branch for final action.

An initial appropriation of $9 million would be authorized for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting in the current fiscal year which began July 1. Long-range financing is left open for later determination. President Johnson recommended the legislation last February as a means of helping to realize the full potential of educational broadcasting. The bill also would extend for five years a program of federal grants for construction of educational TV facilities and, for the first time, include radio stations in the program.

Grants of $10.5 million would be authorized for the current fiscal year. For the next fiscal year the authorization would be $12.5 million and for the third year $15 million, as provided in the House bill. The original Senate bill did not fit any authorization beyond the current year. A third part of the bill would authorize the secretary of welfare to conduct, or contract for, a comprehensive study of instructional television for classroom use.

The first camera exposure meter was invented in 1931 by William Nelson Goodwin Jr., of Newark, N.J.

Waynesburg Cuts Aztecs Lead as Top Small Team

The state of San Diego State's lead in The Associated Press' small-college football poll was somewhat more precarious yesterday, particularly in view of Waynesburg's unprecedented scoring output.

Boosters Meet Tonite, Sell Game Tickets

A good turnout of Dragon football fans is expected for tonight's Warren Sports Boosters meeting, slated for 8 p.m. in the WAHS cafeteria. In addition to commenting on films of last week's victory over Olean, Coach Toby Shea will be present to preview this week's opponent, arch-rival Jamestown.

The Booster board will not meet this week.

Tickets for Saturday night's game will be available at the meeting at $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. They will also be on sale at the principal's office at WAHS until 4 p.m. tomorrow. Reserved seat tickets must be purchased at the gate.

Kickoff time for the contest is 7:30 p.m.

ers and broadcasters. San Diego topped the Yellow Jackets by 24 points last week.

The Aztecs accumulated four first-place votes and 121 points in the balloting based on games through last Saturday. Waynesburg had three first-place votes and 101 points on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third etc.

Unbeaten San Diego rode to its 21st straight victory and fifth of the campaign last Saturday by blanking Los Angeles State 28-0.

Waynesburg overwhelmed Frostburg, Md., 81-0 and is now averaging 62.2 points for five victorious starts. The college division record for one full season is 54.7 points a game established by Florida A&M in 1961.

The Yellow Jackets seem to have another easy target this weekend in Geneva, Pa., which has an 0-4 record and yielded 133 points while scoring only seven.

North Dakota State held the No. 3 position in the poll with 90 points, including 10 for one first place vote. ND State beat Augustana, S.D., 64-19 for a 6-0 mark.

Eastern Kentucky, a 55-0 winner over Northwood, leaped from ninth to fourth place while Northwestern Louisiana slipped one notch to fifth. NW Louisiana was idle last weekend.

The University of Texas at Arlington is sixth followed by Parsons, Northern Arizona, the University of Tennessee at Martin and Wittenberg. Northern Arizona, 4-2, replaced Arkansas State in the rankings. Arkansas State, No. 7 a week ago, lost to Louisiana Tech, 6-3.

Small Top Ten

The Top Ten, with first place votes in parentheses, season records and total points on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

1. San Diego State (4) 5-0 121
2. Waynesburg (3) 5-0 101
3. N. D. State (1) 6-0 90
4. East. Kentucky 4-1 55
5. North Louisiana (1) 4-0 52
6. Texas at Arlington 5-0 50
7. Parsons 4-0 42
8. Northern Arizona 4-2 23
9. Tenn. at Martin 4-0 21
10. Wittenberg 4-0 20

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Akron, Arkansas State, Central Michigan, Chattanooga, Clarion, Colorado State College, Eastern Washington, Florida, A & M, Grambling, Hofstra, Illinois State, Kearney, Lamar Tech, Lenoir Rhyne (1), Linfield (1), Montana State, New Mexico Highlands, North Dakota, Northwestern Louisiana, Northern Michigan (1), Northern S.D., Northwest Iowa, San Francisco State, Southwest Texas State (1), Texas A&I, Texas Southern, Western Kentucky (1), Westminster, 2.

Steele-ing The Sports Scene

(Editor's note: The treatise on officials below is from the October issue of "PA'THLETE," the official publication of the PIAA.)

What Is An Official?

Between the exuberance of the winner and the down-hearted dismay of the loser we find a creature called an official. Officials come in assorted sizes and shapes but usually are dressed in the same type of uniform. All, however, have the same creed—to watch every play of every quarter of every game and to call the plays to the best of their ability as they see them.

Officials are found everywhere—on the field, in the gym, on the track, on the mat, on the diamond, in the pool—on top of, running around, jumping over, climbing through, and always with a whistle ready, looking, looking, looking for some infraction. Fellow officials rib them, athletes tolerate them, spectators boo them, coaches criticize them, wives adore them, sons and daughters idolize them, and mothers worry about them. An official is Courage in cleats, Spirit in stripes, Wisdom with a whistle and despite the fact they get paid for their work, they have a devotion to duty above and beyond that one normally finds in a day's work.

When the game is close, the officials are incompetent, indecisive, and stupid. When it is one-sided, they are merciless, whistle-happy, careless and domineering.

An official is a composite. He looks like a gentleman, acts like a traffic cop, is as fussy as an old grandmother with her sewing basket, as immaculate as a debutante and as big a ham actor as Elvis Presley playing Hamlet in Madison Square Garden.

To himself, an official has never missed a play, called a ball a strike or split a second incorrectly with a stop watch. He has the eyes of an eagle, the keen mind of an Einstein, the judgment of Solomon and the speed and graceful motion of Joe DiMaggio and Jessie Owens, all rolled into one.

To the men who work with him, he is always out of position, runs like a truck, steals calls from under his partner's nose, is blind as a bat, stupid as a mule, and is utterly incapable of making a correct decision on anything except who should drive.

An official likes trips out of town (with mileage), few training sessions, well-coached teams, considerate coaches, polite players, dry fields, cool, crisp days, and the quiet satisfaction of having been a part of a perfect football day. He cares not for wet games, tough decisions, screaming coaches and irate fans.

An official is a wonderful creature. You can criticize him but you can't intimidate him. You can question his judgment but not his honesty. He is the symbol of fair play, integrity and sportsmanship. He is a hard-working, alert, determined individual who is making a great contribution to the American way of life through athletics.

Simpson and Phipps Keep Teams on Top

NEW YORK (AP) — A decisive factor in the choice of the nation's top two college football teams, Southern California and Purdue, can be traced to the remarkable showing of O. J. Simpson and Mike Phipps, according to statistics released today by the NCAA's National Collegiate Sports Service.

Simpson of USC, remains the major college rushing leader with 752 yards in five games. The junior halfback, who sparked the No. 1 ranked trojans to last Saturday's victory over Notre Dame last Saturday, carried 38 times for 150 yards and all three touchdowns in the win over the Irish.

Phipps, a sophomore quarterback, is the nation's No. 2 offensive leader with 1,087 yards rushing and passing. Last Saturday, Phipps gained 259 yards in 29 plays in Purdue's 41-6 defeat of Ohio State. The leader in this category is Terry Stone of New Mexico, only 29 yards ahead of Phipps.

In punting, Steve O'Neal of Texas A&M is the leader with 45.2 average on 36 kicks. Dennis Homan of Alabama, along with Butch Colson of East Carolina and Wayne Patrick of Louisville top the scorers with 48 points on eight TDs.

The leader in pass receiving is Stone's favorite target at New Mexico, Ace Hendricks, with 38 catches for 675 yards and four TDs.

PICKS TROJANS TO LOSE

'Fearless' Grimsley Has Neck Out Again

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If you escape a plane accident, the advice is to take another flight quickly. If you're flattened by a punch, come up swinging.

Don't let yourself get punched. So after being bloodied by last week's ill-fated jabs at No. 1 Southern California and No. 2 Purdue, we take off on another flier — Washington to upset the top-ranked Trojans.

Last week: 39-16, 709 season: 229-75, 753.

Washington 20, Southern California 14: The Huskies are at home and eager and have a good defensive club. The Trojans left a lot at South Bend.

Alabama 22, Tennessee 14: The tough Vols might have won this if quarterbacks Dewey Warren and Charley Fulton had stayed healthy.

Colorado 20, Nebraska 18: The Buffaloes want to get even for that 21-19 loss last year that knocked them out of the conference title.

UCLA 17, Stanford 7: Coach Tommy Prothro and proteges have their sights fixed on the No. 1 national ranking, and may get it.

Texas 15, Arkansas 10: The Longhorns have some recent scores to settle and have the defensive might to do it.

Cornell 14, Harvard 7: The rout of Princeton last week puts

The final score of Sunday's game with the Minnesota Vikings is written on Green Bay Packer coach Vince Lombardi's face as he leaves the field. His expression may be even more sour after his team meets the top offensive team in the NFL, the New York Giants, this weekend. (See story at right.)

Best NFL Offense Meets Top Defense

NEW YORK (AP) — If statistics tell the story, the best offense in the National Football League will be taking on the best defense in the league Sunday when Fran Tarkenton and his New York Giants mates bump up against Ray Mutschke and friends of the Green Bay Packers.

The Giants' attack, which included some improvisations from the public school No. 97 playbook in a triumph over Pittsburgh, has averaged 407 yards a game, tops in the NFL. The Giants' passing game has averaged 273 yards, second only to Baltimore and their running game is fifth with a 133-yard average. The Los Angeles Rams have the best rushing average of 154 yards.

Green Bay has been so tough to score on that it is difficult to see how the Packers have lost a game. In five games the Packers have given up only 54 points or 10.8 a game. Of the 54 points, 44 have followed Packer mistakes such as pass interceptions or fumbles. Actually, the Green Bay defense has given up only 10 true points, and three of those followed an onside kickoff recovery.

The grudging Packer defense has given up only 151 yards a game. The pass defense is so tight that the enemy has averaged just 32.6 yards a game, a shiny target for Tarkenton and Homer Jones. Dallas has the best defense against rushing with an average yield of 73 yards. The Packers are eighth in that category.

In the vital pass blocking and pass rushing categories, the St. Louis Cardinals have been doing the best job of keeping the opposition from climbing over their quarterback. The Cardinals have been thrown only twice for 24 yards. The Dallas Cowboys have the best rush, smothering the passer 19 times for 154 yards in five games.

Baltimore has intercepted the most passes, 15, and Philadelphia has had the fewest picked off, 4.

Oakland Getting Athletics

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The American League approved late last night transfer of the Kansas City Athletics to Oakland, Calif., effective in 1968, and also adopted an expansion plan to increase membership to 12 clubs by 1971 with the expansion franchises going to Kansas City and Seattle, Wash.

The awards to the new franchises cities are subject to applicable baseball rules and procedures and, in the case of Seattle, to that city being able to provide suitable stadium facilities.

The league statement, which followed a day-long hearing of presentations by Oakland, Kansas City, Seattle and Dallas-Fort Worth, Tex., said details still remain to be worked out including coordination of the expansion plans with Commissioner William Eckert and the National League.

David Cohn, head of the Governor's Stadium Committee of Seattle, said that he had his fingers crossed all day long and did not know that Seattle had been included in the plan until the press received the announcement.

"We are highly gratified and now that we have the commitment I don't look for any problems in our bond issue," Cohn said. "But it is a nine-inning ballgame and we'll just have to wait."

Cohn said that Seattle will vote in February on a $40 million bond issue for a multiple domed stadium.

Charles O. Finley, who was rebuffed in 1963 in an effort to shift the Athletics to Louisville Ky., joyfully greeted newsmen with the comment:

"Naturally, I'm very happy—damn happy to be accurate. I am most grateful for the consideration and deliberation given by the league in approving the shift. Last but not least I am looking forward to Oakland in 1968."

It was the second transfer of the original A's franchise, which team, allowing only 189.8 yards per game, far ahead of the Jets' 231.2. The Raiders, second in rushing defense to Boston, have allowed only 110.8 yards a game passing, almost 30 yards better than second place New York.

Hadl Sharp, But Still Behind Len

NEW YORK (AP) — John Hadl earned the praise of his San Diego coach, Sid Gillman, for a masterful effort against Kansas City last Sunday but he still trails the Chiefs' Len Dawson in the weekly statistics rating of the American Football League released yesterday.

Hadl controlled the ball for the Chargers in their 45-31 victory over Kansas City, completing 17 of 32 passes for 307 yards and two touchdowns.

"I've never seen a quarterback control the ball as John did in that first half," said Gillman. "He just went thump, thump, thump up and down the field."

Dawson, the leader in the complicated formula used for ratings, has a 62.4 completion percentage, 10 touchdown passes, a 4.3 interception percentage and a 9.31 yard average gain. In the same categories Hadl is 54.4, 10 touchdowns, 1.9 and 8.08.

Emerson Booser of the New York Jets continued to show the way in scoring with 10 touchdowns and 60 points. He has scored eight times on runs and twice on pass receptions.

Jim Nance of Boston is making a runaway of the rushing race with 607 yards on 133 carries. Hoyle Granger of Houston is second with 362 yards on 75 carries.

Hewitt Dixon of Denver is the top receiver with 32 catches for 283 yards. However, the big yardage man is Don Maynard of the New York Jets with 27 for 611 yards, a 22.6-yard average.

Don Hoak Fired As Phils Coach

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — First base coach Don Hoak of the Philadelphia Phillies will not be back next year, general manager John Quinn announced yesterday.

Quinn said the National League club will retain three instead of four coaches, keeping George Wyatt at third base and Andy Seminick as bullpen coach.

Hoak, 39, who played for the old Brooklyn Dodgers, Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati Reds, Pirates and Phils in a 10-year major league career, signed as a Phillies' coach last December.

Whitney Wins, Toomey Pulls Out

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Ron Whitney of Boulder, Colo., gave the United States its fourth gold medal in the track and field competition of the Pre-Olympic Games yesterday but the U.S. lost a chance at the decathlon title when favored Bill Toomey of Laguna Beach, Calif., was forced to withdraw.

Whitney won the 400-meter hurdles in 49.8 seconds with Gary Knoke of Australia second in :50.3 and Miguel Olivares of Cuba third, also in :50.8. Knoke is a student at Oregon State.

Toomey withdrew from the decathlon competition on the advice of trainer Bob Taylor, who said such events as the high and long jumps might prove too strenuous. Toomey pulled a hamstring in his right leg last week while long jumping.

However, Toomey did compete in the 400-meter dash but fell

Heavy Bout Postponed, Oscar Hurt

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Oscar Bonavena's scheduled heavyweight Nov. 11 elimination bout with Jimmy Ellis in Louisville, Ky. has been postponed until Dec. 2, promoter Juan Carlos Lescure said yesterday.

Lescure said that promoter Mike Malitz had called him from New York granting Bonavena's request for a postponement of the semifinal bout in the World Boxing Association elimination tournament which seeks a successor to Cassius Clay.

Bonavena, Argentina's heavyweight hope, has been ailing with muscular trouble in his back since he outpointed Germany's Karl Mildnerberger in Frankfurt Sept. 16. He had been ordered by his doctor to suspend training for a time.

back as his right leg gave way after leading for 200 meters. The event went to Jon Warner of Poland with a :45.7 clocking. Toomey wound up second in :46.5.

One of the top performances of the day was turned in by 25-year-old Miguel Coblán of Cuba in the women's 200-meter dash. The ceramics worker was timed in :23.1. The Olympic record is 23 seconds, set by Edith McGuire of the United States in the 1964 Games at Tokyo. Gabrielle Meyer of France was second and Karen Wallgren of Sweden third.

Eddy Otzov gave Italy its first track and field gold medal with a victory in the 110-meter hurdles. His time of :13.6 was only one-tenth of a second off the world record.

The women's javelin went to Poland's Daniela Jaworska with a throw of 166-6 1/2.

Doris Brown of Seattle, Wash., finished second to Italy's Paola Pigni in a qualifying heat of the women's 800. Miss Pigni's time was a slow 2:10.3 while Miss Brown's clocking was 2:10.8.

In another heat, Charlotte Cooke of Washington D.C., was runner-up to Vera Nilolic of Yugoslavia in 2:12.3. Miss Nilolic was timed in 2:10.7.

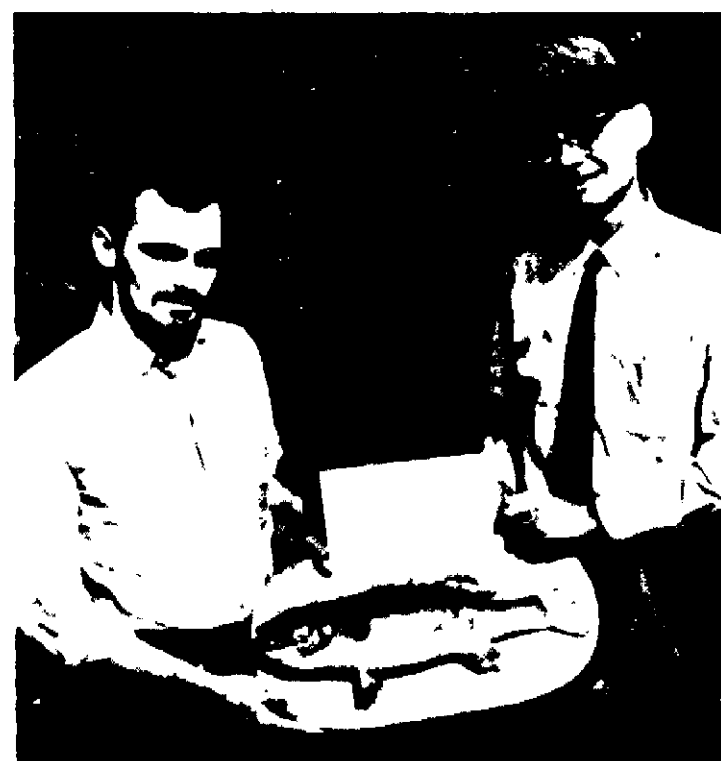

In other track and field events, Romuald Klim of the Soviet Union won the hammer throw gold medal with a toss of 230 feet 11 1/2 inches.

76ers Blast Lakers In Opener, 103-87

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia 76ers opened defense of their National Basketball Association title last night with a 103-87 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers in a raggedly played game at the Spectrum.

Billy Cunningham, the 76ers' valuable sixth man, pumped in 20 points and playmaker Wally Jones had 15 to lead the Philadelphia scoring.

Wilt Chamberlain, slowly rounding into form after a hold-out that caused him to miss pre-season training, scored only 11, but grabbed 30 rebounds and handed out nine assists. He took only nine shots from the field for five goals.

A crowd of 9,106 turned out to see the 76ers in their new home, the $12-million Spectrum. It could have been the new floor or unfamiliar baskets as both teams were off in their shooting and the floor play generally was shoddy.

The teams were tied at 21 after the first period, but the 76ers took the lead 32-30 on an 18-foot jump shot by Luke Jackson after 4:43 of the second period. They boosted their margin to 46-35 at halftime and led 69-48 with 3:10 left in the third quarter.

The Lakers, who won their season opener Tuesday night against the Chicago Bulls, rallied as Elgin Baylor, the game's scoring leader with 24 points, and Jim Barnes helped cut the Philadelphia lead to 10 points at the end of the third period.

The 76ers, however, outscored the Lakers 14-5 in the early minutes of the final period, then coasted to their victory.

Questions & Answers On Income Tax Matters

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matter is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I furnish lunch for my maid. Do I have to pay social security tax on that too?

A — No. The social security tax applies only to cash paid to household employees for wages and transportation. You do not have to include the value of the meals you provide.

Q — I've just received an invitation to a charity ball. If I buy tickets can I list this as a charitable deduction?

A — A payment made to a qualified charitable organization for admission to a show, banquet, charity ball, etc., can qualify as a deductible gift only to the extent it can be shown that it exceeds the fair market value of any consideration received in the form of privileges or other benefits. In an effort to simplify things for contributors, IRS has requested that sponsors of charitable fund-raising events list on the ticket the actual admission price and the amount solicited as a contribution.

Q — My employer advised me that since I didn't file a new withholding certificate by May 1, I have to wait until January 1 to do it. Is that right?

A — No. Many employers will let an employee change his withholding certificate at any time. Under the law, however, the employer is only required to make payroll changes four times a year, on January 1, May 1, July 1, or October 1, for changes filed at least 30 days previously.

Q — My husband has no income except for disability benefits he receives from social security. Are these taxable? Can we still file a joint return?

A — Social security benefits are not taxable. You can file a joint return even though your husband has no other income. Be sure that both of you sign the return.

Q — I recently returned from a European trip and had to pay duty on some things I brought back. Can I deduct this?

A — No. Customs duties imposed on the purchase of items for personal use are not deductible.

Q — Can I deduct the amount of social security tax withheld from my pay?

A — No.

Jewish 'Feast' Starts

"The Feast of the Booths," the days of Thanksgiving referred to in the Bible as the Harvest Festival and the Festival of Ingathering, started at sundown yesterday for Jewish communities everywhere.

At sundown Jews began the celebration of Succos, one of the most joyous of all Jewish observances. It is called the Harvest Festival, because, according to the biblical book of Deuteronomy, it was celebrated at the conclusion of the autumnal festival in the booth erected during the harvest season in ancient Palestine for staying overnight in the fields.

Theme of the holiday is immediately recognizable by non-Jewish Americans, for the American Thanksgiving holiday was patterned from Succos by the Pilgrims. It shares with Thanksgiving the predominant idea of autumnal harvesting and joyous gratitude to God and His bounty.

Freak Storm Hits Dauphin County; Several Are Injured

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) — A freak storm roared through a narrow part of Dauphin County yesterday, ripping off part of a school roof and knocking about cars, trees and barns.

Five pupils at Londonderry Township Elementary School were injured but none required hospitalization.

Three Michigan residents were hurt when the storm spun their car about on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. They were treated at a hospital and released.

The Weather Bureau at the Harrisburg-York State Airport described it as "a severe storm with extremely strong winds."

Steve White of the Communications Center in Middletown said the storm ripped up a 200-foot path of trees of Snavely Road in the vicinity of the school.

The principal, Wendell Poppy, said he heard what sounded like a roar of jets. Next, part of the roof caved in, children were screaming and glass was flying, he added.

The school librarian, Mrs. Anne Freeman, said she looked through the window before the storm hit and saw what appeared to be a cloud of rocks and stones coming up the hill.

A third-grade teacher, Mrs. Leslie Peters, said concrete slabs suddenly crashed through the roof and ripped a door off. Windows were blown in by the wind.

She told her pupils to get on their hands and knees and crawl into the hall. They joined other pupils in the cafeteria. Water poured into the halls as the children scampered.

The teachers led the children in singing to alleviate their fears.

Four pupils were treated at the school for minor injuries. Another pupil, Jane Erb, 8, of Middletown Route 1, was treated at Harrisburg Hospital for cuts and bruises and discharged.

Treated at the same hospital and released were Carl Sonnichsen, 66, of Whittier, Mich., his 61-year-old wife, Marie, and their daughter, Mrs. Carol Bell, 32, also of Whittier.

They were riding in a car headed west on the Pennsylvania Turnpike when they saw a dark cloud approaching from the south.

"The next thing I knew, my car was picked up and turned completely around and I suddenly was facing east."

A farmer said the roof of his barn was peeled off and that a 30-foot tree was ripped up and "just disappeared."

The Pennsylvania Turnpike

Commission said the high winds tipped over a parked truck loaded down with guard rails.

The damaged area is located in the southern part of the county near the turnpike and the Susquehanna River.

Middletown itself, located four miles to the west, did not sustain serious damage. Nor did Harrisburg which is some 15 miles to the west.

Clarke's Death Cuts GOP House Strength

ALTOONA, Pa. (AP) — State Rep. Robert E. Clarke died yesterday of a heart attack, reducing the Republican House strength to the bare majority necessary to pass legislation.

Clarke, who was 63, had been admitted to the hospital last Thursday for treatment of an aneurysm. He had said Tuesday he was feeling much better and hoped to be home by Saturday. He died of a cardiac arrest.

There are now 102 Republicans in the House side of the General Assembly and 99 Democrats. This means all Republicans have to be present and voting to pass a bill.

In the Senate, the Republicans are one over the bare majority of 25 with 26 seats. There are 20 Democrats.

It is the second GOP vacancy in the House.

A special election is set for Nov. 7 to fill the seat vacated by the death of Rep. William C. Fuellhart of the 65th district, which is in Warren and Forest counties.

House Speaker Kenneth B. Lee will set a date to fill Clarke's seat.

Clarke, a heating contractor, was serving his third term. He was chairman of the Third Class Cities Committee.

PROMOTED Thomas Whittaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Whittaker of 1608 Penna. ave. East, was promoted to Specialist Five September 18 in Saigon, Vietnam. A 1965 graduate of Warren Area High School, he has served for 18 months in that area as manager of a warehouse.

Highway Expenditures In Warren Co. Decline

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG—State highway expenditures in Warren County declined during the past fiscal year as compared with the preceding year, a check with the State Department of Highways disclosed yesterday.

Records of the department show that a total of $1,940,143.20 was spent within the county during the fiscal year recently ended. During the previous year expenditures stood at $2,752,711.06.

These figures involve construction and reconstruction work performed by either departmental employees or contractors, resurfacing of existing roads within the county, and maintenance work on highways in the county including snow removal, clandering, oiling, weed cutting, patching and similar maintenance chores, plus allocations made directly by the department to political subdivisions and liquid fuels tax returns made.

In the past fiscal year construction and reconstruction work in Warren County amounted to $459,209.78 (as compared with the preceding year's expenditure of $1,468,978.99). Resurfacing work involved an expenditure of $494,719.89 ($324,530.24 a year earlier), and maintenance, including surface treatment and snow removal — $986,213.53 ($959,201.83).

Expenditure figures for the county do not include direct semi-annual payments to communities within the county under terms of Act 655 (the "Home Rule Act") which covers state funds to cities, boroughs and townships for their own road work.

(During the fiscal year recently completed local municipalities received $292,063.34 under this act-up from the preceding year's $278,271.45.)

Ann Landers
Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: We have a relative who monopolizes every conversation with "Me, me, me.... mine, mine, I bought, I spent, I own, I want, I did." In other words.... capital "I" and small "u".
Can't these people hear themselves? Don't they realize it is ungracious to talk incessantly about one's self? Why do they do it? Perhaps if I understood it better I could tolerate it. — ASSAULT J EARDRUMS

DEAR ASSAULTED: These pathetic creatures feel inadequate. The "I specialists" who continually brag about their possessions, their achievements and their expenditures are not only cloddish but boring. If YOU hear of a cure, let me know, I run into these people, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister had an illegitimate baby in another state and has been there for three years. When she left town she told everyone she was going to marry a widower whose wife had died in childbirth. Please don't get the idea she is a stupid youngster. She is a professional person in her early 30's who has always held excellent positions.

Recently Sis called to say she has decided to come home. She wants us to get the word around that her husband was killed in a plane crash and she is returning home because she needs a change of scenery so she can recover from her grief.

My husband is furious. He is certain that few people believed her first story and that no one will believe the second one. We both feel it is unfair of her to ask us to lie for her. Please tell me what to do. — MR. AND MRS. S-BALL

DEAR MR. AND MRS.: Inform your sister that you are not going to tell people anything—that the explanation can wait until she comes home and then she can put out any story she wishes.

If friends or relatives ask about her, simply say you are unclear as to the details but when she comes home they can ask her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We have a 13-year-old girl whom I can't recognize half the time because she is wearing someone else's clothes. Loretta has dozens of girl friends and they are forever switching outfits. I spend a lot of money on that young lady's wardrobe and I have yet to see her in any of her own beautiful skirts, blouses, slacks, sweaters, shifts or coats.

Last night I asked Loretta to dress for a special occasion and she said she had nothing to wear. She was right. Her best outfits had been traded. When I criticized the practice she called me dumb and insisted that all the kids trade clothes and I am not tuned in to what's happening. What do you know about this fad? — DUMB MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It's no fad. Girls have been trading clothes since the fig leaf.

Put your foot down on that young lady's smart mouth and tell her there will be no more trading of new clothes. If she wants to trade some oldies, O.K., — but make it clear, she must ask you first.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

How Fashion Women Dispose Of Clothes No Longer Wanted

By VIRGINIA LEE WARREN (c) N. Y. Times News Service NEW YORK — It takes space as well as money to keep up to the minute with fashion. So how do women who buy a lot of clothes make room for new ones?

According to a random survey of women who seem never to wear the same thing twice, closets are cleared by gifts to relatives, friends, charity thrift shops and museums.

Only one person admitted she sold her clothes; only one other said she had contemplated doing so. However, Michael (he refuses to give the rest of his name), who has a resale shop here says that his stock comes from exactly the kind of women who were questioned.

The one who said she might now and then send what she described as a big occasion dress to a resale place was Mrs. David Gibbs, who, as Geraldine Stutz, is president of Henri Bendel, Inc.

"But I really wear my clothes and many times I wear them out," said Mrs. Gibbs, whose husband is a painter. Her things that are not worn out are usually bestowed upon friends or a charity.

The woman who had rather wistfully contemplated selling was Mrs. Samuel I. Newhouse, wife of the publisher of a string of newspapers and mother of Samuel I. Newhouse Jr., publisher of Vogue Magazine.

"But I'm a size 4," Mrs. Newhouse explained, "and the resale shops don't think they could find any person my size so I've gotten a little discouraged. In fact, I've given it up. Right now I'm getting together quite a collection to send to the costume institute at the Metropolitan Museum."

Most women questioned said they weeded out their closets about twice a year.

Mrs. Rene Bouche, widow of the portrait painter, has a younger sister in London who can make use of some clothes that she has worn only a few times but does not want to be seen in again.

"Then I have some nieces and I also give to friends or to young secretaries with a sense of style but not much money," said Mrs. Bouche. "I seldom give to thrift shops and I never sell my clothes." The "never" was quite emphatic.

Mrs. Gordon Parks, wife of the photographer, is another who does not want money for the garments she is discarding. "I give them to my housekeeper," she said, "and she knows people who need them."

I don't want anyone to be charged for them. I do trade with friends, sometimes, though, because many of them wear the same kind of things that I do."

While a thrift shop qualifies as a bona fide charity, a donor to it is entitled to a tax benefit for the amount that the shop makes on the donations. The resale shop, on the other hand, pays the woman for whatever clothes she sells, and that's the end of it. According to Michael, the deal almost always takes place in the woman's house or apartment. He says the reason he refuses to use his last name is that he wants to be able to walk in, hold out his hand and say, "I'm Michael; of course you're Peggy."

Grange Notes

The next scheduled meeting of Brokenstraw Grange has been cancelled. It was to have been held on Tuesday, October 24. The announcement was made at the most recent meeting of the grange at which the new 1967-68 officers presided.

The membership voted to send Mr. and Mrs. Leo Johnson as voting delegates from Brokenstraw Grange to the State Grange session at Gettysburg from Monday, October 23, through Thursday, October 26. Also attending will be the state deputies, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jameson.

At 9 p. m., at the conclusion of the business session, the meeting was open to the public. The highlight was the presentation, by the grange, of the candidates running for the office of county commissioner: Blain Meade, Chester Walker, Dr. David Rice and James Marshall. Absent was Tom Donnelly, because of sickness. A question and answer period followed brief talks by all the candidates. Those present were asked to listen carefully, ask questions, and then make up their own minds as to whom to vote for on November 7.

The following dates are on the grange calendar: Oct. 23-26 State Grange at Gettysburg; Oct. 27, Youth Grange Halloween Party at Ackley Grange; Oct. 28, auction sale at Watson Grange; Nov. 4, 7:30 p. m. Pomona degree practice at Columbus Grange, with a tureen dinner to be served at noon and degree work at 8 p. m.; Nov. 13, opening of the 100th anniversary of the grange at the National Grange session in Syracuse, N. Y.; Nov. 18 at 12:30 p. m. the Seventh Degree at Syracuse. Contact Robert Jameson immediately for bus reservations.

The missionary, Etta Devine, sent a note of thanks for the gift of money from the circle to be used in her work. Mrs. H. Kirberger read several articles from different church magazines telling how money is put to good use which comes from the special self-denial offerings. Mrs. Kirberger also played several hymns on the harmonica.

Opening lead: Five of ♠.
The taking of nine tricks in a three no trump contract would have been routine, and North merits a charge for not making that call himself over South's jump rebid of three diamonds. North has a bare minimum opening and should endeavor to avoid an 11 trick commitment. Once he chose to raise diamonds, South re-bid his excellent five card heart suit and North, somewhat belatedly, accepted a 10-trick contract in preference to going a level higher.

West opened the five of spades, dummy played the jack and East's queen won the trick. The latter continued with the ace and declarer ruffed.

South tried to draw trump by cashing the top three heart honors, however, when West showed out on the third round, declarer was obliged to stop inasmuch as he had only one trump left himself—while East still retained the jack.

A club was led to the queen and a diamond was returned. South finessed the queen and West was in with the king. A spade lead forced out declarer's remaining trump, and when he tried to run the clubs, East ruffed in on the third round and cashed two spade tricks to set his opponent down by two.

Declarer had banked everything on finding the trumps divided three-three. Since this prospect was distinctly against the odds, he should have planned his campaign to allow for the contingency that one opponent might have four hearts.

Observe that South has 10 tricks—ev. allowing for a loser in the trump suit—the count being: four hearts, one diamond, and five clubs. In order to retain control of the hand so that he can cash all his winners, it is necessary to concede a heart trick early.

It is suggested therefore, that South lead the five of hearts at trick three while the dummy still has two trumps. Neither East nor West can return another spade at this stage without giving the declarer a ruff and discard. South can win any other lead, cash the A-K-Q of hearts to draw trump and then run the good clubs.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—A good star, a cheery mood can carry you to faster and better results. Mind the temperament and don't assay to be the sole judge in affairs that really call for more heads than one.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—An open mind, keenness, steady effort may bring real benefits. Try something new with promise or with the anticipation of sound advancement. Being usefully busy makes for happiness.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Need for deliberation in matters involving legal, civic and all controversial subjects. Read over the small print before you sign anything. Do not overtax physically. Tensions lessen in p.m.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Healthy outlook. Advantages for the taking. Be among the doers and not on the sidelines as a wisher. Give your best, using economics, tact, prudent handling of energies.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—If you concentrate on essentials, everyday things will result in pleasant experiences. But if you strive for the extra then you must give up some "happy experiences" for hard, sturdy effort.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Auspicious, so further well-intentioned ideas, promises that can help stabilize assets, improvements. Be consistent in speech, action; don't expect others to do what you would not. LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Mostly receptive for general business, money matters, affairs of a personal or family nature. Make certain that agreements are thoroughly understood by all concerned. Radiate good cheer.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Go about routine ably and unmindful of opposition or what other think. Take time out to weigh WELL propositions that involve properties or your occupation. Be logical, constructive.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Energetic and thoughtful action will bear good fruit this you-make-it-well-balanced day. Give all matters ample study and don't consider hearsay as fact. Mind the artful dodges.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—It isn't mostly what we wish but instead what is good for the whole that should be given consideration. Selfishness in the world has produced most of its ills. Be NOT a party to such goings-on.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—First things first—is the order of the day. So many distractions prevalent that you must close your eyes to them UNTIL finished with assigned tasks. Sensible procedure and reasoning urged.

YOU BORN TODAY: Innate good judgment, a keen sense for intelligent industrious matters, finances. If you use your natural perseverance well you can attain top goals in your chosen field or occupation. Other factors that can aid: Tenacity, honesty, directness of purpose. Develop finesse to the full; watch out for self-centered temptations that are pleasing but may irk. Many types of endeavors offer your talents and ability a future. How to Keep Well By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

READER QUERIES

A Milwaukee woman wants to know whether plants and flowers should be removed from the bedroom at night. "According to grandmother, who was a nurse, plants consume much needed oxygen. She told me that flowers were always removed from the rooms of sick people and kept in the halls at night."

In grandmother's day, hospital rooms were not air conditioned and windows usually were kept closed during the night hours. Flowers were put in the cooler halls because they wilted when kept in warmer rooms.

The idea of plants robbing the sleeper of much needed oxygen or releasing too much carbon monoxide is an old wives' tale. The oxygen consumption of large plants during the night is insignificant compared with the amount used by the sleeper in five minutes. The same can be said of carbon dioxide.

An easterner writes: "Is middle-age spread caused by glandular changes?" There is no doubt that most 50-year-olds no longer have the hips and abdomen of a 17-year-old boy or girl. If you do not believe this, visit the beach or go to a high school or college prom. When you get home, stand in front of a full-length mirror and the difference will be obvious.

On the other hand, a well-established middle-age spread stems from eating too much. The proof lies in the fact that not all women are affected in this fashion. Fat tends to accumulate in the hips and legs of a small number of persons with certain glandular disorders or hereditary tendencies. But where did it all come from? It still comes in through the mouth regardless of the hormones circulating in the bloodstream.

Dental scientists have been studying the lowly barnacle (Cirripedia) to discover what kind of glue he uses to attach himself so firmly to ship bottoms. They hope to find a cement that will fill fillings firmly into tooth cavities. Barnacle adhesive sticks to anything solid—animal, mineral, or vegetable. It clings, tenaciously in extremes of cold or heat and mariners have all they can do to remove it from ships.

TOMORROW: Renal Rocks.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

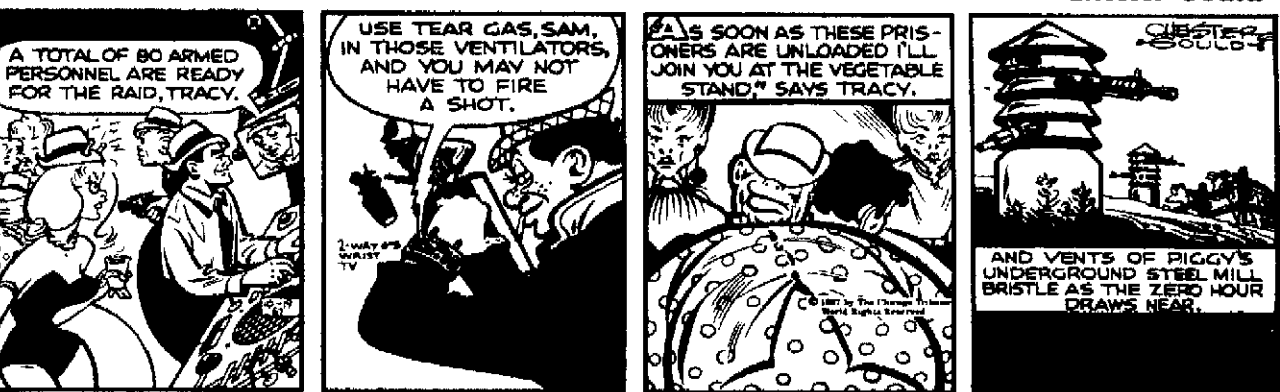

DROOLING WHILE ASLEEP

R.H. D. writes: What causes saliva to run from the mouth during sleep?

REPLY

Saliva is manufactured day and night, but during our waking hours we swallow the secretion as it accumulates. At night we are less inclined to swallow and, in addition, the fluid gravitates toward the lips and flows out when the jaw sags and the muscles of mouth and cheek relax.

Two Americans, Swede Win Nobel Prize For Medicine

By RICHARD SODERLUND STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two Americans and a Swedish neurologist were awarded a Nobel Prize yesterday for their discoveries on how the human eye works.

Haldan Keffer Hartline of New York's Rockefeller Institute, George Wald of Harvard University and Ragnar Granit of Sweden shared the prize for physiology or medicine for their work on "the primary chemical and physiological visual processes in the eye."

The prize, awarded by Sweden's Royal Caroline Institute medical faculty, amounts to $62,000 to be shared equally among the three.

Hartline, 63, who studied medicine at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, and headed its biophysics department 1949-53 has made basic contributions to the investigation of how visual cells send their messages to the brain.

He also has succeeded in demonstrating the reaction pattern of individual vision to variations in kinds and amounts of light.

Wald, 60, is a world authority on the biochemistry of perception. He has been a Harvard biology professor since 1948.

His main concern is the receiving function of the eye and chemistry's role in the mechanism of vision. He has reached a number of important findings about photochemical reactions of cells in the retina at the back of the eye.

The importance of vitamin A to vision was one of his discoveries in the 1930s.

Hartline, a soft-spoken man with a white moustache, told newsmen in New York he was "not very comfortable because of all the fuss that is going on."

At his Cambridge, Mass., laboratory, Wald sipped champagne from a chemistry beaker with his wife and collaborator, Dr. Ruth Hubbard Wald. "I'm a little breathless," he said.

Granit, born in Finland, is a member of the Swedish Academy of Science. He worked at the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Helsinki before joining the Caroline Institute in 1940. His concern is with the processing of impulses in the complex cell network of the retina. He became a Swedish citizen about 10 years ago.

The medicine prize was the first of four Nobel Prize categories to be awarded this year.

This noon the Swedish Academy of Letters will announce the awards for literature, music and physics and chemistry will be awarded Oct. 30.

Stein's Ladies Shop Has 61st Anniversary

While most ladies prefer not to discuss their age, Stein's Ladies Shop at 344 Pennsylvania ave., W., is proud to announce that it is 61 years old and still going strong.

In discussing the 61st Anniversary event, Raymond Stein noted that desirable merchandise, a well stocked store, a relaxing and beautiful atmosphere have been keynotes at Stein's since it was established. "And service," Stein said, "is something that should be inherent with every good store."

Stein's was founded in 1906 by E. L. (Ernie) Stein who died at the age of 94 last year. He came to Warren from Clayton, N.Y. and purchased a ladies shop from J. M. Shearer then located at 209 Liberty st. He concentrated on quality merchandise and enlarged and remodeled the store many times.

In 1930 that building was sold to G. C. Murphy Co. and Ernie purchased the present store then occupied by J. C. Penney. This store too, was remodeled many times and son Raymond has continued to follow in his father's footsteps to maintain what many term a "dream store."

Ray, in 1933 and following his graduation from Pennsylvania State University, joined his father first as store manager and later as a partner in 1945, following return from three year's overseas duty during the war.

Ray stated the personality of the store has evolved from their stress on the personal touch. Customers are known by name and their needs are catered to. Emphasis is placed on a friendly, cheerful atmosphere.

Through the years, Stein's has avoided typical "gimmick" sales, preferring to concentrate on several sales a year for the purpose of clearances.

The faces of those who serve Stein's clientele remain familiar from day to day as far as permanent personnel is concerned. Mrs. Evelyn Kempas has been employed there for 16 years; Mrs. Lorraine Lane, 15 years; Mrs. Edith Krespan, 12 years; Mrs. Carrie Paterniti, seven years and for several years, Mrs. Maxine Johnson has been in charge of the office.

Like his father before him, Ray is active in numerous community affairs. He is president of United Fund, vice president of Children's Aid and Family Service, and has served Warren Area Chamber of Commerce in many capacities being president in 1961. He has also assisted in various fund-raising drives.

Ray is a member of North Star Lodge, F & AM, Coudersport Consistory, Warren Lodge of Elks, B'nai B'rith, Zem Zem Temple and Conewango Valley Country Club.

He and his wife, Frances, have been married over 21 years. Their oldest daughter, Beverly, is now a junior at Penn State, while Leslie is a senior at Warren Area High School. The Stein's reside at 214 Buchanan st.

Police Stop Veteran From Jumping Off Bridge

FRANKLIN — A 40-year-old Franklin man climbed to the top of the eighth street bridge Tuesday afternoon and threatened to jump as a huge crowd gathered below.

Clair Lester Vogus, of 505 1st st., recently released from the Veterans Hospital, was subdued following a brief struggle with state police and committed to Venango County Jail. He spent nearly two hours atop the steel structure along Route 22, entering Franklin after climbing it around 2 p.m. Vogus said he could not find work and claimed he had no friends.

William Amos, a crew chief at General Telephone Co., was the first person to reach the agitated man. He, with three other crew members, climbed the bridge. State and city police, the Franklin fire department and at least two clergymen were summoned to the scene.

A large crowd had gathered and at one point, Amos reported, Vogus told him he would come down if everybody would leave.

Pennsylvania Electric Co. was also summoned to the scene with Trooper Lee Hugar going up in the Penelec bucket. He and Amos managed to get Vogus into it. Vogus started to struggle with the trooper but by the time the bucket was brought to the ground, Hugar had the man under control.

As Hugar released his hold on Vogus to allow another trooper to place handcuffs on the man, Vogus again began to struggle and was quickly subdued by four officers.

Probers Claim Army Rifle Program Was Mismanaged

By ROBERT A. HUNT
WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators singled out ammunition deficiencies yesterday as the major contributor to malfunctions of the troubled M16 rifle. They declared Army handling of the problem "borders on criminal negligence."

As initially developed, the light-weight, rapid-firing rifle being used in Vietnam "was an excellent and reliable weapon," the report said. But the investigators contended the manner in which the Army rifle program has been mismanaged "is unbelievable."

The House Armed Services subcommittee headed by Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., in a hard-hitting report after lengthy hearings and a field trip to South Vietnam, also:

— Called for government audits of both the Colt Firearms Co., maker of the rifle, and Olin Mathieson, producer of the powder used in ammunition for the M16. The report charged Colt made excessive profits over what was originally negotiated.

— Said it was "at least unethical" for Maj. Gen. Nelson M. Lynde Jr., who was commanding general of the Army Weapons Command at the time of the initial procurement, to accept employment with the producer of the rifle upon his retirement.

— Claimed there still is no proof that modifications proposed will eliminate malfunctions experienced with the M16 in Vietnam and called for an independent test of the combined weapon system.

The subcommittee report was signed by all three members, Reps. Ichord, Speedy O. Long, D-La., and William G. Bray, R-Ind.

They said Army and Marine troops had been hit by "serious and excessive malfunctions" with the controversial rifle—the worst being a failure to extract the spent cartridge.

Shortages of cleaning equipment, lack of proper training, instructions and supervision in care and cleaning of the weapon played a part in the malfunctions, they said. "But the major contributor" was use of an ammunition not designed nor developed for use in the weapon, they said.

The report said the Army changed to a different powder without adequate test data in 1964. It added that the adverse effect on the rifle of ammunition loaded with the newly adapted powder was known to the Army as early as March 1964 but it continued to make quantity purchases for use in Vietnam.

The Army is committed to buy more than 1.4 million M16s.

Mindszenty Bows to Pope's Requests

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
BUDAPEST — Jozsef Cardinal Mindszenty bowed yesterday to the requests of Pope Paul VI that he remain for the time being in the sanctuary of the United States Embassy here instead of walking out as he had planned.

The Pontiff's wish was conveyed to the Hungarian primate Tuesday by Franz Cardinal Koenig of Austria, who flew to Budapest from Rome.

Koenig spent the night in Mindszenty's third-floor quarters at the embassy and conferred with him all morning.

It is understood that Mindszenty is still demanding several conditions for his departure from the asylum he has had for almost 11 years.

His previous plan was to walk out of the embassy today, a day prior to the scheduled arrival of the first U.S. ambassador to Hungary, Martin Hillenbrand, who is now in Vienna.

This would have confronted the Hungarian Communist authorities with the problem of how to treat the 75-year-old cardinal once he set foot outside the extraterritorial area of the embassy.

The presence of nearly 20 uniformed and plainclothes policemen around the embassy on Szagadsag (Liberty) Square during the last four days indicates that the Communist regime intended to arrest him on the spot and return him to prison to serve out a life sentence imposed in 1949 on conviction for "espionage."

This is precisely what the Vatican and the U.S. government wish to avoid since a new arrest of Mindszenty would only serve to upset the already cool relations between them and the party-state regime of Janos Kadar.

Maryland was named for Queen Henrietta Marie, wife of Charles I of England.

The Confederacy was founded at Montgomery, Ala., in February, 1862.

YOUNG AMERICANS

Composite above shows teen-age members of the nationally-famous singing group known as the Young Americans singing Milton Anderson, their organizer and manager, in an inviting lake, while other Young Americans applaud. They're scenes from "Young Americans," new Columbia Pictures release in Technicolor, the heart-warming story of 36 teenagers who toured from California to New York, finding fun wherever they went. The Young Americans have been seen on television with such stars as Bob Hope, Dean Martin, Judy Garland, Kate Smith, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Peter Nero and Andy Williams. The film is now showing at the Library Theater. Today's three performances at 4:30, 6:30 and 8:30 p. m. are being sponsored by the Warren Area High School German Club.

Corry Police Seek Higher Wages, More Fringe Benefits

CORRY—Members of the city police force headed by Chief Frank Carnegie, appeared at Monday's council meeting to state the department's case for higher pay, more fringe benefits and new equipment.

The chief told council he had been investigating in other communities and had concluded that Corry is below par in all three categories.

Speaking of the pay scale here and elsewhere, Carnegie singled out Warren, where patrolmen after five years of service are paid $6,060 a year. By contrast, he said, Corry has a sergeant with 17 years of service who draws an annual salary of $5,749.

Carnegie noted that in Warren a private (patrolman) makes $480 the first year. In Corry he makes a maximum of $440 a month as long as he serves in the rank of patrolman. As for patrolmen on the Corry force, Carnegie said he would like to see them given raises every year for five years. The chief added it was obviously going to be difficult to attract good men to the police department.

Fringe benefits are also sub-par for Corry police officers. Policemen have no paid holidays, the chief said and stated he felt they should have at least six. He would also like to see additional vacation time after 10 years of service. Officers get up to 16 days now and Carnegie feels they should go to 21 after 10 years of service.

Cumulative sick leave of 75 days over a period of five years was also recommended so officers could save up time for major illnesses.

As to equipment, the chief stated it was too little and too old. Carnegie cited the current condition of such riot equipment as the department's tear gas gun. The gun is all right, he said, but the tear gas grenades are 12 years old and outdated after five years and probably would not fire.

Carnegie wants officers to have more "mini-streamers" a small pen-like tear gas gun that can be carried in an officer's shirt or jacket pocket. He cited the need for riot helmets and nightsticks, pointing out that if the department had a riot here or were asked to help out in Union City, Warren or Erie, they would not be equipped to do so.

Carnegie reminded council that the older of the two patrol cars has 67,000 miles on it and should be traded before it reaches a critical stage.

Probably the greatest need in line of equipment, according to the chief, is a communication system for officers on foot.

2nd Fire At Kane Warehouse

KANE — Fire of unknown origin, apparently "set," damaged the unused frame warehouse of W. H. Christie and Sons on an alley between Hacker and Yarnall streets last Saturday for the second time in a few weeks.

The discovery of the blaze in the south wall of the building called all units at 9:15 p. m. The previous fire was started along the south wall at the east end of the large frame and metal building. No storage materials are in the building and fire loss was not extensive.

The fire was started against an outside wall, W. H. Christie said after the first fire the building was nailed tight and new locks placed on doors. Firemen had to break the locks to enter and get at the fire eating up the rear wall.

There is a $200 reward standing for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the numerous "set" fires in Kane and vicinity. Information should be given to Fire Chief H. D. Gardner or Police Chief Elmer Jones.

Fire Marshal John Paxton is working with local agencies in an effort to apprehend the person or persons responsible.
